“Nothing makes me more nervous than people who say, ‘It can’t happen here.’ Anything can happen anywhere, given the right circumstances.”

— Margaret Atwood, Author of The Handmaid’s Tale

Ottawa was built at the confluence of three great rivers. We invite you to imagine these powerful river forces as a metaphor for ILA’s mission and the responsibilities we have been entrusted with as we work in this field. Our vision is that this conference will be an experience of true fellowship among us — a space to refresh our ideas, to reweave our most interesting and provocative scholarship and to compassionately challenge our leadership practices.

In planning this year’s conference, we aimed to bring a particularly Canadian emphasis, a spotlight on ideas and issues that are vitally important here, but also deeply relevant to leadership scholars, practitioners, and teachers globally: reconciliation with Indigenous peoples, meaningfully addressing sustainability, and building the capacity of our governance systems so that they can intelligently balance the competing interests of shareholders, citizens, and the planet. It has been an honour and a privilege to design these brief days together.

We hope that your time with us will stimulate your creativity, satisfy your appetite for learning, and inspire you to teach and model thoughtful, ethical, and dynamic leadership. Let’s open ourselves to the inspiration of our natural surroundings as well as to the aspirations and creativity around and within us.

“As you enter positions of trust and power, dream a little before you think.”

— Toni Morrison
It is exciting that all of us have made the journey to the beautiful city of Ottawa for the ILA’s 21st annual global conference where we are taking the time, and creating the space, to discuss complex leadership questions.

Why devote so much time to thinking and worrying about leadership? Thinking — because it is central to what we all do and defines our actions and contributions, in our own particular ways and in our many and diverse settings. Worrying — because, too often, the quality of leadership we observe and experience is ineffective and falls short of our aspirations. Leadership is something we all do. It is something we can all improve upon. And, as this gathering illustrates, we don’t have to do it alone.

As members and guests, you are part of a worldwide community of those who think about, read about, study, teach, and practice leadership. Through our programs we create space together where it is safe to explore and grow professionally and personally through conversations and dialogue about the very essence of leadership: ideas, techniques, and contexts. Our ILA is a unique community rich with experience and expertise connecting leadership theory, education, development, and practice.

The ILA is a place of and for purposeful connections — connecting people with each other, with ideas and resources, with other cultures and experiences, and for connecting challenges with solutions and perceptions with evidence. Our success then, and the potential we have for improving effective and ethical leadership and influencing whether our world gets to be a better place or not, is rooted in our connectivity. How well we relate to each other and to the wealth of resources that we collectively represent will determine our impact on leaders, followers, and leadership.

Those that could have journeyed to Ottawa to further our leadership work. It is our highest hope that you leave Ottawa more connected, more challenged, and better informed and prepared to do your important leadership work. It is through our connecting, connections, and connectivity that we work together so powerfully to advance leadership knowledge and practice for a better world.

Plan to attend ILA’s annual membership meeting on Thursday, 24 October from 16:00 to 17:30 at the Westin Hotel, Les Saisons Room
INDIGENOUS AFFIRMATION

Ni manàdjiyànànìg Màmiwinini Anishinàbeg, ogog kà ngadawàbandadjìg iyo aki eko weshkad. Ako nongom ega wìdàdì ki migiwewàdài.

Ni manàdjiyànànìg kakina Anishinàbeg ondaje kaye ogog kakina eniyagizidjìg enigokamigàg Kanadàng eji ondàpinangig endàwàdjin Odàwàng.

Ninisidawinawànànìg kenawendamòdjàg kije kikenindamàwìn; weshkinigidjàg kaye kejeyàdizidjìg.

Nigijeweninmànànìg ogog kà nìgàni sòngeteyàdjàg; weshkad, nongom; kaye àyànikàdài.

We pay respect to the Algonquin people, who are the traditional guardians of this land. We acknowledge their longstanding relationship with this territory, which remains unceded.

We pay respect to all Indigenous people in this region, from all nations across Canada, who call Ottawa home.

We acknowledge the traditional knowledge keepers, both young and old.

And we honour their courageous leaders: past, present, and future.

The Indigenous Affirmation is a living piece of truth and reconciliation and is intended to promote a spirit of awareness of Indigenous people both historically and today. Traditionally, Indigenous people did not use land acknowledgements, but instead gave statements to recognize the hospitality shown to them when visiting other territories, to honour their ancestors, as well as to acknowledge the ongoing relationship of people to place.

Advancing leadership knowledge and practice for a better world

The International Leadership Association’s Building Leadership Bridges series captures the best contemporary thinking about leadership and leadership practice from thought-provoking authors and researchers, experienced educators, game-changing coaches and development professionals, and successful business executives and public leaders. In keeping with ILA’s mission, the series builds connections between people’s leadership experiences around the globe to advance leadership knowledge and practice for a better world.

TRANSFORMING LEADERS

Our programs are designed to create and inspire transformative and innovative leaders, managers and researchers who have a positive impact on the lives of people, on their organizations and in their communities.

SHAPING COMMUNITIES

Our alumni, our students, our executive clientele and our researchers help to shape and transform the communities within which we live, work and play. We nurture and share the close connections that we have forged within these communities so that you can learn alongside leaders, entrepreneurs and executives that are working to transform their own communities.

CHANGING THE WORLD

At Telfer, our mission is to launch and accelerate management careers and influence sustainable organizational performance through the leadership of our graduates and the impact of our researchers. We believe that we are making the world a better place with the work that we do.

ABOUT THE TELFER SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT

Located in the heart of Ottawa, our school is the proud academic home of some 4,500 students, 89 full-time faculty members, and over 25,000 alumni. Our accreditations from the three most demanding international organizations (AACSB, AMBA & EQUIS) underline our recognition as one of the world’s top management schools.

ILA LEADERSHIP LEGACY PROGRAM

Honoring Luminaries With the ILA Lifetime Achievement Award

ILA’s Leadership Legacy Program honors individuals who have made a significant lifetime contribution to the field of leadership through their published works and influential support of leadership knowledge and practice. Each honoree is presented with ILA’s Lifetime Achievement Award and has their work celebrated at our annual global conference. After the conference, recipients are added to the ILA Virtual Hall of Fame (www.ila-net.org/Legacy) where their oral histories, conducted in partnership with the Tobias Leadership Center at Indiana University, are made available to the public.

LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT AWARD PRESENTATION

Nancy J. Adler, S. Bronfman Chair in Management, McGill University

Presented by ILA Board Member Éliane Ubalijoro, Professor of Practice, McGill University

Nancy Adler is a leading expert on global leadership, cross-cultural management, and women’s leadership. In addition to consulting for private corporations and government organizations around the world, she has been honored as one of Canada’s top university professors and received McGill University’s first Distinguished Teaching Award in Management. She is a prolific author with more than 125 articles, 10 books, and edited volumes including International Dimensions of Organizational Behavior (5 editions), and Women in Management Worldwide. She also has produced three films and is a visual artist known for her paintings, monotype prints, and ceramics. Her paintings are held in private collections across the globe.

Adler will give an invited presentation on the topic of “The Perfection of Imperfection: The Economics of Beauty” on Friday from 11:45 to 12:45 in Meeting Room 207.

You are invited to express your congratulations at the Lifetime Achievement Award Meet & Greet, part of the Saturday evening extravaganza from 18:30 to 20:00 in Canada Hall 2, Booth 106.
KEYNOTE CONVERSATION

Leadership: From the Vicious Circle to the Virtuous Circle With Courage, Authenticity, and Presence

The Right Honorable Paul Martin, 21st Prime Minister of Canada

Senator/Ànike Nìgànizi Murray Sinclair, Senator of Canada; Parliament of Canada; Aboriginal Judge; Chief Commissioner, Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada / Ànike Nìgànizi Kanadàng; Wàbishkiwe Ogimà Kanadàng; Anishinàbe Tibàkonigewiniìnì; Nàgànìkandang Tebwewin Kàbì Ijiwebąg

Moderator: Cynthia Wesley-Esquimaux, 1st Indigenous Chair for Truth and Reconciliation, Lakehead University, Orillia & Thunder Bay

The opening plenary welcomes two of Canada's most respected leaders. In conversation with Cynthia Wesley-Esquimaux, these fast friends will reflect on pivotal moments in their lives and careers. With humor, humility, and authenticity, they will offer us a provocative perspective on the leadership challenges facing the world. This conversation will challenge us all to enter a deeper dialogue over the next three days, one that values inter-generational and cross-cultural learning and nourishes our collective capacity for authentic, courageous, and humane leadership.

Pick up a coffee or tea in the Parliament Foyer as you make your way to Concurrent Session One by 10:15. Have a great morning!
Prior to the plenary, please enjoy morning coffee, tea, juice, and assorted breakfast items from 7:45 - 8:30 in Canada Hall 2.

KEYNOTE CONVERSATION

Lead Beyond Courage: Trust and Rebalancing Leadership in an Interdependent World

The Right Honorable David Johnston, Governor General of Canada, 2010 - 2017
Henry Mintzberg, The John Cleghorn Professor of Management Studies and Faculty Director (International Masters for Health Leadership), McGill University

Moderator: The Right Honorable Kim Campbell, 19th Prime Minister of Canada

Are we all driven to compete, collect, and consume, or is there another path? Can leaders work to rebalance society in order to respect social, economic and political predispositions? How can we build trust, the essence of all relationships from the very personal to the international? This keynote conversation between Professor Henry Mintzberg and The Right Honorable David Johnston will provoke us to consider how leaders can define a sane and thoughtful path between systemic awareness and personal practice. The Right Honorable Kim Campbell will moderate and add insights from her extensive public and private leadership roles.
SATURDAY PLENARY

Coeur and Courage: Finding Your Fierce Heart and Leading With It

Danièle Henkel, Founder and CEO, Danièle Henkel Entreprises

Interviewer: Ingrid Richter, Executive in Residence, Telfer School of Management, University of Ottawa

Danièle Henkel’s unique and unconventional life experiences have shaped her as a wise and loving human as well as a respected and courageous business leader. A successful, self-made entrepreneur, Danièle will share her views about how to confront systemic barriers and how to grow beyond the dynamics of dominant cultures, faith traditions, and marginalization. She currently multiplies her impact by supporting the empowerment of women entrepreneurs globally. Her delightfully irreverent sense of humor, combined with her deeply held commitment to creating a better world, will provide a thought-provoking, inspiring, and uplifting close to ILA 2019.

Richard Couto
Presented by Georgia Sorenson, Leadership Scholar, Executive Education, Møller Institute, Churchill College, University of Cambridge

Richard Couto was a pioneer in leadership studies and service-learning, championing an emphasis on social change within both. Throughout his life, he sought to improve lives in Appalachia and the rural South through his teaching, scholarly research, intervention programs, and related professional services. As a Kellogg National Leadership Fellow, Couto worked to bridge leadership theory and practice and later contributed toward the founding of the ILA. He was a founding faculty member of the Jepson School of Leadership Studies at the University of Richmond. Five of his 14 authored or edited books won national awards, including Political and Civic Leadership Reference Handbook (SAGE).

ILA — CULTIVATING A THRIVING GLOBAL COMMUNITY

MISSION
Advancing leadership knowledge and practice for a better world.

CORE VALUES
Our core values represent our deepest beliefs and highest aspirations regarding who we want to be as an organization and how we aspire to engage with the world.

INCLUSION We foster and promote diversity.

INTEGRITY We expect effective and ethical leadership practices and rigorous scholarship.

INTERCONNECTION We believe that we are part of a global web of interdependence; by bringing people together in meaningful ways, we deepen this interconnection.

INTERDISCIPLINARY We promote and influence leadership as an interdisciplinary field from multiple sectors at the nexus of theory and practice.

INTERNATIONAL We respect cultural contexts and facilitate learning and networking across the boundaries.

IMPACT We encourage leadership initiatives that advance the field of leadership and contribute to the greater good.

OUR MISSION IN ACTION
The world has a deep and pressing need for leadership that inspires and enables us to face the challenges of a complex, diverse, and ever-changing world. Our increasingly interdependent world requires the best thinking about leadership from all perspectives, sectors, disciplines, and cultures to develop innovative ideas and creative solutions. Leadership can make the difference. The ILA is committed to ensuring its evolution and effectiveness by creating trusted spaces for leadership learning across boundaries and providing trusted leadership resources for our members, partners, and the public.

Despite urgent calls to action from the IPCC, the UN, the World Bank, multiple industry associations, banks, courts, and even the Pope regarding the urgent need to mitigate and reverse the effects of climate change, many businesses are continuing to “sleepwalk into catastrophe.” Instead, many of the world’s most pressing environmental and social issues such as rising carbon emissions, resource scarcity, plastic pollution, mass migration, poverty, and conflict, amongst others, get relegated to the realm of business externalities. In a world dominated by the shareholder supremacy norm, deviating from purely profit maximizing goals is fraught with difficulty: COURAGEOUS LEADERSHIP IS REQUIRED.

In this spotlight symposium sponsored by the Sustainability Leadership Member Community, we’ll hear from business leaders who have managed to challenge the status quo, break through traditional conventional commercial approaches, and implement more sustainable solutions. We’ll tackle questions including: What is the role of leadership in driving more sustainable practices across all types of organizations? What are the best practices/lessons learned in pushing the sustainability agenda? How do we encourage today’s leaders to incorporate climate change considerations into current decision-making processes? How do we train and teach the leaders of tomorrow to courageously embrace corporate sustainability for a better word? In your experience, does the pursuit of sustainability reshape the practice of leadership? Join us over lunch for a moderated panel session, focused on interactive dialogue.

Didn’t purchase a ticket in advance? A limited number of tickets are available onsite. Please inquire at the ILA registration and help desk.
Develop Great Leaders With Feedback That Gets Heard

Jim Ludema, Center for Values-Driven Leadership at Benedictine University
Amber Johnson, Center for Values-Driven Leadership at Benedictine University

Feedback is the breakfast of champions. So why do most of us go hungry? Asking for honest feedback is difficult because we are fearful of what we might hear. Giving honest feedback is equally hard. Many of us have been socialized to avoid conflict and that impulse hampers our ability to offer direct feedback. Yet without that honest feedback, how can we know how to grow as individuals? How can we help others grow? Ludema and Johnson will tackle the topic of giving feedback that gets heard through Appreciative Feedback, which provides leaders with a positive, strengths-based approach for addressing challenges and building high capacity with team members. Come learn a new approach to giving feedback (that works!), while networking with other scholar-practitioners focused on business leadership. Join us for a fast and fun event, meet other likeminded leaders, and learn a useful tool that will help you develop great leaders and drive performance with feedback that gets heard.

Leadership Education Luncheon | Parliament Foyer I (Ticketed Event)

Please join the Leadership Education member community for our fourth annual luncheon. The luncheon provides an ideal space for reflective conversations about what we believe leadership education should include. What are our roles in preparing our students and each other to lead? What should we, as educators, know and teach about leadership as it relates to various contexts (e.g. cultural considerations, social movements, etc.)? During the luncheon, we will also be honoring Olenda Johnson, Professor of Strategic Leadership & Leader Development, College of Leadership & Ethics, U.S. Naval War College, as this year’s winner of the “Most Publishable Leadership Education Paper” award sponsored by SAGE Publishing.

Thank you to SAGE Publishing for being a Silver Sponsor & being a sponsor for this event!

FRIDAY 25 October 18:00 Community Receptions

Peace Leadership Networking Reception | Meeting Room 107 (Open to All Conference Registrants)

Please join the Peace Leadership Affinity Group for our first hosted reception! Join peace leaders, practitioners, and local players and scholars for stimulating conversation as we exchange ideas and stories. Help us create an energetic community and spread peace leadership throughout the ILA.

Deans, Directors and Chairs Networking Reception | Meeting Room 108 (Ticketed Event)

Ever wonder how other Deans, Directors, and Departmental Chairs beat burnout, work smarter, and respond to challenges and opportunities in their institutions? Join us for an evening of community-building and networking with this unique group of post-secondary leaders. Two drink tickets, refreshments, and light facilitation included.

Didn’t purchase a ticket in advance? A limited number of tickets are available onsite. Please inquire at the ILA registration and help desk.
FRIDAY 25 October 19:30 Community Dinners
Enjoy a wonderful dinner with one of these three ILA member communities.

- Youth Leadership Networking Dinner | Blue Cactus Bar and Grill (Ticketed Event)
- Public Leadership Networking Dinner | Clock Tower – Rideau Street (Ticketed Event)
- Philosophy, Religion, and Worldviews Networking Dinner | Cornerstone Bar and Grill (Ticketed Event)

SATURDAY 26 October 13:00 - 14:15 Community Luncheons

- Arts & Leadership Luncheon | Meeting Room 214 (Ticketed Event)
The arts connect us across time, place, and generations. The arts can teach us about creating an environment that supports courageous conversations and courageous leadership. Gloria Burgess and John Burgess, community co-conveners, welcome you to this special luncheon for the Arts and Leadership member community. Join us for an enjoyable lunch over table conversations. Meet and greet new friends. We look forward to seeing you there!

- Leadership Development Luncheon | Meeting Room 214 (Ticketed Event)
Please join the ILA Leadership Development member community for our first community luncheon. The theme for this luncheon is “energy.” We have created an exciting agenda of activities for this engaging and interactive inaugural luncheon. Rev up your leadership development engines and come prepared to engage, network, share, and be recognized!

- Healthcare Leadership and Followership Luncheon | Meeting Room 214 (Ticketed Event)
Please join colleagues focused on Healthcare Leadership and Followership at this inaugural luncheon to build a new ILA member community. Twenty-first century healthcare requires effective teams composed of agile and adaptive leaders, managers, and followers each of whom knows when and how to lead and when and how to follow. ILA could play a central role in the scholarship and practice of educating and developing outstanding and effective healthcare teams. We will discuss how to build this new ILA community to address this important topic across the professional healthcare life-cycle.

- Women & Leadership Luncheon | Parliament Foyer (Ticketed Event)
This event for scholars and practitioners passionate about women and leadership is designed to create networking opportunities and foster conversations focused on sharing resources, ideas, challenges, and solutions. As is traditional, drawings will be held for copies of ground-breaking books on women and leadership. Feed your spirit, build your network, and become part of the Women and Leadership member community!

Thank you to MetLife for being a Silver Sponsor & being a sponsor for this event!
Thank you to Indiana Wesleyan University, The Graduate School for being a Bronze Sponsor & being a sponsor for this event!

ILA Intersections
WHERE MEMBERS CONNECT

ILA’s cloud-based community platform and member portal
Intersections.ILAmembers.org
One of the unique tenets of the International Leadership Association (ILA) is the value placed on rigor and relevance at the nexus — the intersection — of theory and practice. James MacGregor Burns, one of the founders of the ILA, valued the criticality of working at this intersection. He believed strongly that theory guides practice and practice informs theory and that through this synergy, we can create a better world. These strands of thought, present at the association’s inception, helped to embed intersectionality into the very heart of the ILA and an abiding belief that by working together, we can be effective and impactful. Throughout this conference program book, you will find many examples of work at the nexus of leadership practice and theory. Our spotlight sessions, feature speakers at the tops of their fields whose work is of special importance to ILA’s mission and the conference theme.

Friday 25 October | 10:15 – 11:30 | Meeting Room 208

Indigenous Leadership and Environmental Sustainability

Chair: Sharon L. O’Sullivan, Associate Professor, Telfer School of Management, University of Ottawa
Chris Henderson, Program Director & Lead Mentor, Indigenous Clean Energy: 20/20 Catalysts Program
Yogendra Chaudhry, Vice President, Professional Services, Eco-Canada
Mandy Gull, Deputy Grand Chief, Cree Nation Government

Many Indigenous communities in Canada are seeking ways to improve their economic situation. With cultural traditions closely tied to the environment and communities located adjacent to natural resources, they are ideally positioned to lead projects that can support their environmental and traditional values and provide their communities with a long-term revenue stream. Panelists will discuss two of Canada’s most successful training programs for Indigenous Clean Energy, sharing their experiences with mobilizing knowledge and establishing developmental learning relationships that engage Indigenous participants and support their community development — critical to solving the greatest crisis facing all of humanity today: Climate Change.

Friday 25 October | 11:45 – 12:45 | Meeting Room 215

Leader Character for Courageous Leadership

Mary Crossan, Distinguished University Professor & Professor of Strategic Leadership, Ivey Business School, Western University
Bill Furlong, Executive-in-Residence, Ian O. Ihnatowycz Institute for Leadership, Ivey Business School, Western University
Steve Virgin, Director, Character Based Leadership, Human Resources Branch, Canada Revenue Agency

The challenges and opportunities we face personally and professionally require strength of character that exceed our current capacity both as individuals and in organizations. In this session we will engage participants and unpack what leader character is, why it matters, and how it can be applied personally and professionally in organizations. Mary Crossan and Bill Furlong will set up the underpinnings for leader character and Steve Virgin will engage participants in the story of how the Canada Revenue Agency used character-based leader selection to help embed character leadership in its 40,000-person organization.
Saturday 26 October | 14:30 – 15:45 | Meeting Room 208
Women on Boards: Courageous Leadership Required

Chair: Marlene Janzen Le Ber, Associate Professor & Chair, School of Leadership & Social Change, Brescia University College
Karen Fryday-Field, Senior Partner, The Meridian Edge Leadership and Governance Consulting Group
Deborah Rosati, Founder & CEO, Women Get On Board, Inc.

Statistics for the percentage of women on boards suggest a stubborn resistance to equality with men. In 2017, women held only 15% of board seats globally. Canada, host to this year’s conference, was only slightly ahead in 2018 at 16%, with 31% of issuers having no women on their boards. While countries such as Norway, Iceland, Finland, and Sweden have nearly doubled the number of women on boards (approximately 34%) with their specific targets, quotas, and penalties for not meeting regulations, the business case, alone, for women on boards ought to convince other countries to follow suit.

Saturday 26 October | 16:00 – 17:00 | Meeting Room 211
Corporate Leadership: The Courage to Be Socially Responsible

Chair: Daina Mazutis, Associate Professor, Strategy, Telfer School of Management, University of Ottawa
Pat Dambe, Vice-President, Corporate Affairs and Government Relations, De Beers Group of Companies
Alonzo Weems, Vice President and Deputy General Counsel, Legal, Eli Lilly And Company

Global corporations play a pivotal role in shaping the future and in understanding the impact they have on local and global communities. Their vision, values, and culture form the foundation for the emergence of leadership that can boldly bridge the past and the future. Executives from two major global corporations, De Beers and Eli Lilly, will discuss their personal and corporate stories and the courage required to contribute responsibly to the communities in which they work and reside. De Beers VP Pat Dambe will take a case study approach to the private and public sector partnership between De Beers and the government of Botswana on sustainability and corporate citizenship. Eli Lilly VP Alonzo Weems will share insights into Lilly’s heritage of contributing to the wellbeing of the global community and how the company continues to make meaningful impact through the leadership and courageous actions of individual employees.

Thank you to Indiana Wesleyan University, National & Global for being a Bronze Sponsor and a being a sponsor of this event!
GUIDE TO SESSION FORMATS

Knowing the format of a concurrent session you’re interested in is key to understanding what to expect from the session. The stream can also provide helpful information in determining the session’s focus and target audience.

CONCURRENT SESSION PRESENTATION FORMATS
The ILA uses the following definitions to create shared expectations between presenters and attendees.

PANEL
An informed discussion and/or debate on a topic by panelists with contrasting or complementary points of view, moderated by a chairperson, with time reserved for audience participation, questions, and comments.

PRESENTATION(S)
A stand-alone presentation or multiple presentations that were individually accepted and grouped together by the program team into a session focused broadly on a theme or approach. The session chair introduces each presentation, keeps time, and facilitates the question and answer portion.

SYMPOSIUM
Individual papers/presentations that were submitted together as a wholistic session exploring a common subject. Chairs frame the session, introduce presenters, keep time, and help move the conversation along. Commentators, if listed, moderate questions to create a rich discussion among presenters and attendees.

WORKSHOP
Rooted in audience participation and active learning, half or more of the time is spent on experiential learning and innovative, interactive audience participation focused on learning a new skill, methodology, or technique.

SESSION STREAM
A session’s stream is an indicator of its focus and target audience. All sessions have streams corresponding to an ILA member community or a special topic of interest to the conference. The session stream is listed on the far right above the title of each concurrent session or in the name of special events and community meals.

- Arts Leadership
- Business Leadership
- Ethics and Leadership

- Youth Leadership

OTHER FORMATS

INTERACTIVE ROUNDTABLE DISCUSSION
Small group discussion on a topic of common interest facilitated by an individual or team. The organizer frames the topic and then facilitates a discussion with participants at the table. After 22 minutes a bell rings and participants have the opportunity to move to another roundtable or remain where they are to continue the conversation. Roundtables will take place on Friday from 16:15 - 17:45 in Canada Hall 2 at the Shaw Centre.

POSTER
A visual display of research, projects, papers, or programs. Posters will be staffed by the presenter(s) during the hosted poster session Saturday from 18:30 - 20:00 in Canada Hall 2 at the Shaw Centre.
WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY IN DEPTH

Inquire at the ILA Help Desk for tickets to pre-conference workshops. Complete descriptions are available online at ILAGlobalConference.org.

16:00 – 17:30  ILA Annual Membership Meeting

18:00 – 19:30  Opening Reception
See details below.

Sandra Tenasco (Algonquin Elder, Kitigan Zibi First Nation) and the Ottawa River Singers welcome ILA to the city with a blessing and performance.

After toasting to the days ahead with our colleagues from around the globe, enjoy locally themed appetizers as you stroll the spectacular Grand Hall, which introduces the history, cultures, and beliefs of the First Peoples of Canada’s Pacific Coast. With its curving, six-story window wall offering an unrivaled view of Parliament Hill, the Grand Hall is one of Canada’s most impressive indoor public spaces and the museum’s architectural centerpiece. The museum is free and open for exploration from 17:00 – 20:00! ILA participants are encouraged to come early and stay late.

As a leader yourself, you know the power of a good education. At African Sisters Education Collaborative (ASEC), we provide Catholic Sisters with the programs and tools needed to become confident and effective servant leaders. Catholic Sisters are already serving in Africa’s poor and rural communities, where help is needed most. But 80% of these women lack the education needed to take on leadership roles in their schools, hospitals, and more. By sponsoring a Sister, you can give her the tools to create real, global change.

From improving healthcare and access to education, to building infrastructure and creating jobs, ASEC’s 5,300 alumnae are solving serious development challenges in the communities they serve. They truly are changing the world.

Learn more about supporting the important work of Catholic Sisters at asec-sldi.org.
Organized by ILA’s Leadership Education Member Interest Group (LEMIG), the yearly case competition brings together teams of students to face-off in an event where they analyze and develop a specific set of strategic recommendations that address key issues in a real world case involving a contemporary leadership issue of their choice. The winning team from each division (graduate and undergraduate) receives a $1,000 cash prize and is honored at the closing plenary of the conference.

Conference attendees are invited to attend the poster showcase and finalist presentations to engage and support this emerging generation of contributors to the field.

Earn Your Ph.D. in Leadership!

The University of Southern Maine (USM) has launched a new low-residency doctorate program in Leadership. This revolutionary program is the first of its kind in New England. Available fully online with three-day annual summer residencies, this program aims to develop thought leaders who are committed to exploring leading-edge issues through combining scholarship, innovation, creativity, and self-inquiry. Fall 2020 program applications are due by December 1, 2019.

The University of Southern Maine also offers Bachelor’s and Master’s degrees in Leadership, as well as multiple graduate certificates — all offered in a variety of formats: on-campus, online, or blended. Of special interest is our new fully online Graduate Certificate in Professional Leadership Education, a distinctive 12-credit, post-baccalaureate certification. Faculty and professionals in curricular and co-curricular higher education contexts will benefit by developing their content knowledge in leadership and organizational theory as well as their capacity to design, deliver, and evaluate postsecondary leadership education programs.

ATTITUDES ABOUT LEADERSHIP
IN THE UNITED STATES

• What do Americans expect of leaders at various levels? Are those expectations being met?
• Which factors are affecting Americans’ willingness to lead and follow?
• How are younger generations being perceived in terms of motivation and preparedness to lead?

Results of a groundbreaking survey will be released for the first time at the International Leadership Association (ILA) 2019 global conference. Roundtable discussion 4:15-5:45 p.m. on Friday, Canada Hall 2 (level 3 of Shaw Centre)

Leadership studies faculty at Christopher Newport University conducted a national survey on public attitudes about leadership in the United States. At the roundtable, two members of the research team – Lynn Shollen and Elizabeth Gagnon – will reveal results, facilitate discussion and invite suggestions on how to improve next year’s survey.

Christopher Newport is a public liberal arts and sciences university in Virginia and a national leader in leadership education. Our minor in leadership studies was honored with the Outstanding Program Award from the Association of Leadership Educators in 2019. More than 25% of our students participate in our President’s Leadership Program, which combines an 18-credit academic minor with co-curricular experiential learning and personal development opportunities.

Christopher Newport is an enthusiastic supporter of ILA and its programs. Look for our large delegation of faculty and students at the conference.

Meeting Room 101 | Symposium | Ethics & Leadership
Courage in Ethical Conflict: Three Leadership Paths Through Ethical Conflicts in Spiritual Dilemmas
Chair: Enrique E. Lopez, Senior Consultant, Humanum Consulting
Commentator: Michael Chikeleze, Associate Professor of Leadership Studies, Xavier University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6jkbdmu for Session Details.

Benevolence: Connections With Vocation, Virtue, and Utilitarianism
Nancy Sayer, Director, SamaraCare Consulting
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3stepfy2 for Complete Description.
 Spiritual leadership assessment is new and can leverage research on benevolence. Drawing on benevolence research with corporate leaders and their direct reports in a variety of industries, implications for spiritual leadership competencies and spiritual styles, especially with respect to vocation, virtue, and utilitarianism, are reviewed.

Ethical Styles, Spiritual Leadership, and the Role of Vocation, Virtue, and Equity in Spiritual Leadership
David W. Barnett, Owner & Principal, Grand Arbor Advisors
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y32xcx7y for Complete Description.
In this presentation, one of the developers of the revised Ethical Leadership Style Questionnaire for Spiritual Leadership explains the concepts of ethical styles, spiritual leadership, and the role of vocation, virtue, and equity (including all from a utilitarian perspective).

The Three Profiles of Spiritual Leadership: Preliminary Results Using the ELSQ SL
Walter R. Baehrend, Adjunct Professor; School of Graduate, Adult and Professional Education; Benedictine University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yyqs8awg for Complete Description.
This presentation will review initial results based on the ELSQ SL in terms of the primary ethical style preferences identified, the less preferred ethical styles identified, and the resulting three profiles identified based on the correlations found.

Meeting Room 102 | Panel Discussion | Sustainability Leadership
Cultivating Globally Conscious Leaders: Incorporating Sustainable Development Goals in Leadership Education
Chair: Natalie J. Coers, Lecturer of Global Agricultural Leadership Development, Agricultural Education and Communication, University of Florida
Barb W. Altman, Associate Dean, College of Business, Texas A&M - Central Texas
Janis B. Balda, Professor of Sustainable Enterprise, Unity College
Etta Delores Jackson, Founder & CEO, International Development, Antioch University
Paul Kosemple, Associate Director & Teaching Professor, Pioneer Leadership Program, University of Denver
Rian J. Satterwhite, Director, Office of Service Learning & Leadership, University of Nevada, Las Vegas
Nicole Stedman, Professor, Agricultural Education and Communication, University of Florida
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3xnhf6p for Session Details.
Higher education has the potential to play a transformative role in the way students and rising global community leaders advocate for and act upon pressing global issues facing our agricultural, health, and social systems. Join this dynamic panel of leadership educators focused on utilizing the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) as a strategic framework for developing global awareness and encouraging action.
Meeting Room 103 | Symposium | Leadership Development

Culture Change & Leadership in the Middle East: UAE's Development, Egypt's Politics, & Saudi Arabia's Vision
Chair & Commentator: Afsaneh Nahavandi, Professor, Management, University of San Diego School of Business
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3rgmy8c for Session Details.

From Dubai to Cairo, Riyadh to Beirut, the Middle East is undergoing significant struggle and, potentially, sustained cultural change. This symposium looks at the effects of this phenomenon on leadership through the lenses of the rapidly developing United Arab Emirates, the recent presidential politics in Egypt, and Saudi Arabia’s look toward 2030.

The Changing Face of Cultural Leadership in a Rapidly Changing Society:
The Case of United Arab Emirates

This presentation places the challenge of followership within the context of organizational culture and invite executives, professionals, and scholars to analyze carefully an organization’s culture to identify the places in which it should be manipulated to facilitate leader effectiveness and maximum ethicality and to encourage follower courage, employee engagement, and deeper organizational commitment.

Organizational Self-Efficacy: A Systems Approach to Building Leaders and Followers
Lewis Steinhoff, NNSA Faculty Chair, Center for Strategic Deterrence Studies / U.S. Air War College
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yxd97dhu for Complete Description.
Bandura (1997) states, “Perceived self-efficacy refers to beliefs in one’s capabilities to organize and execute the courses of action required to produce given attainments” (p.3). If one considers an organization made up of a diverse set of people well trained in the individual skills necessary to produce, they can envision organizational self-efficacy that is sustainable into the future. This paper takes a systems approach (Boulding, 1985) to examination of integrative approaches to simultaneous leader-follower development (Day, Harrison & Halpin, 2009). This is done through use of real examples from the military and private industry.

Civil Leadership
as the Future of Leadership

Our societies, institutions and social fabric are currently in the early stages of the third revolution of humanity, the Digital Civil Revolution. Disruption is not restricted to markets. The same technologies that cause and fuel it, are giving citizens more knowledge and information, more public and political influence, and tools to organize themselves and so to disrupt politics, democracy and public services. This totally transforms the media landscape, public opinion, political debate, and the roles of industry and the state toward citizens.

Using multiple examples from across the globe, this book explores, analyzes and defines this revolution, its impact, the underlying technology and trends, as well as the special kind of civil leadership needed to harness this new citizen power that is disrupting the public domain.

Steven P.M. de Waal, PhD, is a strategic consultant, entrepreneur and chairman of multiple non-executive boards. He combines his extensive experience in the boardroom with research and academic reflection. Dr. De Waal's writing focuses on strategic thinking, practical wisdom for executives and social entrepreneurship. He has published several books and many articles, and he has given numerous interviews and lectures for an executive audience.

His dissertation (2014) conceptualized civil leadership and researched civil leaders' values patterns in the different private-sector contexts. He launched one of the first think tanks in the Netherlands, Public SPACE (www.publicspace.eu), which aims to develop strategies for the common good.

At the ILA conference Steven de Waal will host an Interactive Roundtable about his book and the new leadership that is required because of fundamental change in the public domain. (Friday, October 25)

‘Civil Leadership as the Future of Leadership’ by Steven P.M. de Waal is available as e-book and paperback on Amazon.com and in local (online) bookstores worldwide. www.publicspace.eu

  L.J. McElravy, Associate Professor; Agricultural Leadership, Education and Communication; University of Nebraska-Lincoln
  Visit http://tinyurl.com/yymyaarz for Complete Description.
  In this study exploring Positive Youth Leadership Identity — the explicit theory of oneself as a positive leader — we provide evidence for the construct validity for the second-order construct with six sub-factors: leadership self-efficacy, desire to develop into an effective leader, relational self-efficacy, empathy, hopeful goal attainment within groups, and optimistic outlook of group work.

- Development and Validation of the Adaptive Leadership With Authority Scale — A Mixed Method Study
  Moh’d Saleh Raei, Consultant, Self Employed
  Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2nb2csb for Complete Description.
  Quantitative research has been lacking on adaptive leadership. This doctoral study presents a reliable scale to measure adaptive leadership with authority. Additionally, it identifies leader with authority behaviors that are conducive to adaptive change. Implications for leadership development will be discussed.

- The Ecological-Mechanistic Leadership Scale: Developing an Instrument to Assess an Organization’s Paradigm
  D. Adam Cletzer, Assistant Professor, Agricultural Education and Leadership, University of Missouri
  Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3hpfrmc for Complete Description.
  Ecological leadership theory contends that organizations exhibiting a more ecological approach to leadership will be more adaptive to the external environment and, therefore, more successful over time. One of the difficulties in empirically validating this claim is a lack of instruments for measuring leadership behavior on an ecological to mechanistic continuum. This presentation describes the creating of such an instrument.

Exploring Entrepreneurial Leadership
Chair: Anthony Middlebrooks, Associate Professor & Director of Graduate Programs, Horn Program in Entrepreneurship, University of Delaware
Commentator: Scott J. Allen, Board Chair, Collegiate Leadership Competition
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y5q634sh for Session Details.

The extraordinary growth of entrepreneurship in both theory and practice provides a rich context from which to enhance leadership and understanding. Leaders can enhance their efficacy by adopting entrepreneurial tools and mindsets and all entrepreneurs need to function as leaders at some point. This symposium explores the range of applications and implications within entrepreneurial leadership.

- Design Your Leadership Like an Entrepreneur
  Anthony Middlebrooks, Associate Professor & Director of Graduate Programs, Horn Program in Entrepreneurship, University of Delaware
  Visit http://tinyurl.com/yye4n9zk for Complete Description.
  Entrepreneurs maximize success through leadership while leaders can utilize entrepreneurial tools and mindsets to enhance their performance. An effective entrepreneurial leader sees more opportunity, sees differently to reframe problems, sees more answers to enhance creativity, sees it started, and sees it through to implementation. This entrepreneurial mindset model frames numerous applications for leaders and leadership.

- Entrepreneurship: Profiles in Courageous Self-Leadership
  Janice L. Cardwell, CEO and Founding Partner, Conceivers Leadership Development Group; VP & Campus and Academic Director, University of Phoenix Detroit Campus
  Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2m8qvv5 for Complete Description.
  Entrepreneurship, described as influencing, managing, and directing one’s own behaviors, is the quintessential example of self-leadership. Inspired by new technologies, social media, innovations, incubators, and “Shark Tank” like pitch contests, entrepreneurship is a rapidly growing field for self-leadership opportunities. This presentation will summarize the narratives and leadership attributes of five entrepreneurs who launched and sustained successful businesses.
Social Entrepreneurship: Entrepreneurial Leadership or Responsible Leadership?
Stephanie E. Raible, Assistant Professor, Social Entrepreneurship, University of Delaware
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y5a0qy5z for Complete Description.
This presentation examines social entrepreneurship through two contrasting lenses — responsible leadership and entrepreneurial leadership — using narrative data collected from five social entrepreneurs and filtered through Fauchart and Gruber’s (2011) three social identity types. Entrepreneurial leadership aligns with the Darwinian orientation, whereas communitarian and missionary social identity orientations align better with responsible leadership. Implications and applications for advancing leadership are discussed.

How Do We Cultivate Ethical Cultures? Ethical Development Through Leadership and Social Engagement Programs
John Lubker, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, Graduate School, University of Notre Dame
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3orxyb for Complete Description.
The author investigated the effectiveness of creating ethical cultures through graduate student training in leadership and social engagement programs. Initial analysis shows that both programs had a positive impact on participants’ moral judgement, self-efficacy, integrity and character, and shared program goals. The findings were used to create a new program that combines the most effective aspects of each program.

Resolve, Change, and Greatness: How the Values of U.S. Presidents Unify and Divide
Carlo A. Serrano, Adjunct Professor, Regent University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y58gqbj8 for Complete Description.
This presentation confirms the power of rhetoric to provide leadership, influence, and the propagation of a set of values. This presentation explores 15 speeches from Presidents George W. Bush, Barack H. Obama, and Donald J. Trump and reveals several overarching themes and underlying values that may provide insight into each presidency.

Political and Public Leadership: A Comparative Analysis of the Crisis of Economic Refugees in Two Nations
Sandra Dennis, Consultant; Ministry of Social Development & Poverty Reduction, Ministry of Children & Family Development; Government of British Columbia, Canada
Fabricio Cordova, Major, Ecuadorian Military (Co-Author)
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y45hnues for Complete Description.
Displacement of people globally is at a record high. Canada’s situation is examined as the anti-immigration policies of President Trump in the U.S. have encouraged refugees to cross the border illegally. The increasing refugee crisis in Ecuador, due to the political and financial collapse of Venezuela under President Maduro, is explored. Leadership lessons gained in the two countries are identified.

Courage to Lead Global Change: Facing Complexity Through Peace-Building, Design Thinking & Strategic Change
Chair: Matthew James Schatteman, Senior Director, Marketing, Kaman Distribution
Commentator: Allan W. Bird, Associate Vice President for International Affairs, College of Business, Pacific University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y5slea92 for Session Details.
Today's global leaders face a context of constant flux: To paraphrase Pasmore (2015), it's all changing, all the time. What does global leadership require in these complex and sometimes contentious environments? These presentations answer that question through three case studies drawn from research among global peacebuilders, design thinkers, and strategic change leaders.

Designing a Global Culture of Innovation — A Case Study of Transformational Change Using Design Thinking
Lisa Ruiz, Senior Director, Regulatory Affairs, AbbVie, Inc.
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2byetq6 for Complete Description.
Research supports the use of design thinking as a tool to solve complex ambiguous problems. A senior director at a global pharmaceutical company describes a three-year global change initiative that applied design thinking processes to develop a model of continuous insight generation with the goal of increasing team connection, relational energy, and responsiveness to the rapidly changing healthcare environment.

Global Integration: One Firm's Journey to Create Unity Across Boundaries Through Strategic Change
John Heiser, CEO, LabVantage Solutions, Inc.
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yygkyew5 for Complete Description.
When the presenter was named CEO of a mid-size global software firm, he discovered the firm lacked a strategic plan and its geographic divisions operated almost as separate entities. The CEO turned to the appreciative inquiry process to bring global integration and create a strategic path forward. This presentation shares the results.

Tales of Courage: Stories of Courageous Leadership From Chinese and American Peacebuilders
Carolyn Maraist, Consultant, AAP
Today's global leadership necessitates an understanding of peace building processes. This presentation shares insights drawn from interviews with Chinese and American peacebuilders. Told in the peacebuilders' own words, the stories illustrate leadership and courage, and point toward eight characteristics of peace builders that emerged across both cultures.

Mahalakshmi Kumaran, PhD student, College of Education, University of Saskatchewan
Betty K. Mutwiri, PhD Student, Educational Administration, University of Saskatchewan
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3c6qowz for Complete Description.

Visible minority women fall at the intersection of race, culture, and gender. Using the collaborative auto-ethnographic approach, they attribute the 7Cs of Courage, Confidence, Cultural Intelligence, Compass, Connections, Coaching, and Contribution as critical building blocks for their personal mastery and social influence. The 7Cs demonstrate positive leadership practices across all cultures.

Advancing Feminine Leadership: How a Group of Academic Women Found Courage in Community
Virginia McKendry, Associate Professor, School of Communication and Culture, Royal Roads University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6f84o for Complete Description.

This study explores how women leaders are advancing feminine, inclusive values in their neoliberal university. Lacan’s discourse of the hysteric and feminist, consciousness-raising theory are used to make sense of this community’s social process for advancing feminine leadership values to transform the exclusionary, entrepreneurial values that present harms to the mission of teaching and learning.

The Courage to Lead: Rocking the Boat Without Falling Out
Faith W. Ngunjiri, Associate Professor of Ethics and Leadership, Offutt School of Business, Concordia College
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6zgq34s for Complete Description.

Authenticity scholars find that being your true self at work is fraught with challenges for those with marginalized identities. This presentation will provide an autoethnographic exploration of authentic functioning, leadership, personality, and self-expression in the context of leading as a woman of color in a predominantly white institution, in the context of racially motivated denied promotion.

Living (and Leading) Dangerously: A Health Leadership Program as an OD Intervention
David Charles Sweeney, Director, Leadership, NSW Health Education and Training Institute
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y636vpx for Complete Description.

The Health Leadership Program, an innovative organizational development intervention, aims to generate collaborative leadership culture with a core focus on improved patient well-being. It encompasses a clear theoretical basis, organizational development design features, and some unique exercises. A recent evaluation reveals that it has been successful in significantly improving collaboration between clinicians and non-clinicians, between teams, and across an organization.

Change Leadership in Professional Higher Education
Hasan Kettaneh, Researcher, Education, Queen’s University

Change leadership is increasingly recognized as a critical issue for organizations facing change in complex and volatile environments. Given the prevalence and importance of change, there is a surging interest in the role of leadership in planning, executing, and anchoring change at the different levels of change implementation. Competent leaders can be the difference between success and failure.

Since our panel discussion last year, democracies have continued to be on the run and populist governments and parties have seemingly settled in. There has been an erosion of liberties and rights from Hungary to Hong Kong and gerrymandering continues to plague the USA. Is the trend inexorable? Or, are there signs that the populists and nationalists may run out of steam? Taking into account the past year, panelists will revisit their conclusions of 2018 and share fresh, engaging conclusions for leadership.

In times of disruption, people need courage to humanize the adaptation process. This hands-on workshop will introduce a humane instrument to increase change readiness based on each person's initial response in four areas. Participants will experience how their unique initial response to a change they select informs their contribution and needs. Participants will then be coached through constructive change conversations.

Meeting Room 203 | Workshop | Leadership Scholarship

What Does Leadership Courage Look Like When Contending With Whiteness Norms?

Erica Wiborg, Research Assistant, Leadership Learning Research Center, Florida State University

Jermani Felicia Thompson, Principal Consultant, JSquared Management Consulting

Jennifer L. S. Chandler, Lecturer, Leadership and Interdisciplinary Studies, College of Integrative Sciences and Arts, Arizona State University

Participants examine Whiteness norms common in leadership contexts. The facilitators share their own experiences mirroring recent research examining the Whiteness of leadership which concluded that “doing leadership is inextricably linked to doing Whiteness [and] the invisible presence of Whiteness in leadership discourses sustains White power and privilege” (Liu & Baker, 2017, p. 420). The goal of this workshop is to provide participants with an analytical model for examining these leadership limitations. Participants will engage with a social norms model and with each other to reveal Whiteness norms occurring in their environments and will then analyze options for courageously and innovatively contending with Whiteness norms they encounter.
Meeting Room 204 | Workshop | Ethics & Leadership

The Four A’s: Essential Components for Developing Ethical Leaders

In Canada, the Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC, 2015), outlined 94 calls to action meant to foster reconciliation. Calls related to education and leadership reflect the work of Indigenous leaders who for years have called for the decolonization of educational institutions through the centering of Indigenous knowledges (Kirkness, 2013, Battiste, 2013, RCAP 1996). This special event will strive to answer these calls by offering the KAIROS Blanket Exercise (Kairosblanketexercise.org). The training to conduct the exercise has been gifted to graduate students who either identify as Indigenous or whose research relates to reconciliation. During this exercise, leaders will take participants through an interactive history of Turtle Island. The history covered offers a unique Indigenous perspective that has been largely absent from policy, leadership, and educational discussions. This powerful and at times painful historical journey is intended to sensitize people to a silenced narrative and open doors for dialogue and reconciliation.

Pracademics are the future ambassadors of academia and communities of practice. This roundtable will discuss the benefits and functions of pracademics in the workplace, identify practical ways to collaborate with higher education institutions to develop future pracademics, and explore how pracademics and academics can enhance outcomes within strategic and developmental efforts.
18. Attitudes About Leadership in the United States: 1st Annual Survey Results
   S. Lynn Shollen, Associate Professor, Leadership and American Studies, Christopher Newport University
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/yy55wqhd for Complete Description.
   Results from the first annual Attitudes about Leadership in the United States survey will be presented. The survey examines the public’s attitudes toward leadership and perceptions of influences on leadership at various levels and in different sectors within the United States. The longitudinal aspect of the study is informative as aspects of context and follower demographics shift over time. Roundtable participants will discuss ideas about how to improve the survey for future releases.

19. CAS Standards for Student Leadership Programs
   Gayle Spencer, Director, Illinois Leadership Center, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y5dq6j6e for Complete Description.
   The Council for the Advancement of Standards (CAS) in higher education has existed since 1979. The Student Leadership Programs Standards and Contextual Statement have been recently revised. Come see how you can use these important documents in your leadership programs to promote intra-campus collaboration and reflect good practices in leadership education.

20. Developing the Capacity for Courage in Distance Education Through Service-Learning
   Brent Goertzen, Professor, Leadership Studies, Fort Hays State University
   Justin Greenleaf, Associate Professor, Leadership Studies, Fort Hays State University
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2kmhjic for Complete Description.
   Service-learning is widely recognized as a high-impact teaching practice. As online education continues to rise, leadership educators should (re)consider their academic curriculum to integrate service-learning. This roundtable will share research-based best practices of eService-learning and discuss insights from our experience employing an andragogical approach toward student-led, eService-learning. Participants will be invited to share experiences and collaborate with others.

21. Leaders Shaping Culture: Voice as a Means of Gaining Organizational Understanding
   Corey Oliver, Student, Leadership Studies, University of Central Arkansas
   Malcolm Andrew North, Assistant Professor, Leadership Studies, University of Central Arkansas
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y54bvshp for Complete Description.
   As school leaders shape school culture, instrumental voices that the system comprises should not go unheard. Hearing these voices broadens the potential for positive systemic change. Using an organizational culture scan as a means of lifting the voice of a school's principal and teachers (key stakeholders) and thereby gaining organizational understanding, this study shows how adaptive school leaders can impact culture.

22. Nurturing Tomorrow’s Leaders for Complex Environments by Using Leader Child Program (LCP)
   Omer Livvarcin, Researcher, Vectors Group
   Rick Nason, Professor, Dalhousie University (Co-Author)
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6fv8bc6 for Complete Description.
   The Leader Child Program (LCP) has been developed as an embedded leadership education process for children and early youth which complies with their curriculum from kindergarten to the university.

23. Principal Leadership Networks: Collaborating to Improve Schools
   Linda Massey, Associate Director, Principal Association Projects, Ontario Principals’ Council
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y64j4bqbc for Complete Description.
   Three principals’ associations, in partnership with an education ministry, have developed and delivered this voluntary leadership project for 14 years, successfully developing leadership networks/principal learning teams of school leaders who collaborate within and across districts in the province to build their leadership capacity to improve student achievement. Come and hear our story.

24. Service-Learning and Critical Race Theory: Courage Delivered Online
   Ramiro de la Rosa, Associate Director, Leadership Studies, University of Texas Rio Grande Valley
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/yxv3zg8d for Complete Description.
   Scholarly research indicates that the use of experiential learning and community engagement through service-learning can deepen student understanding and promote learning. The presenter will discuss the development of a fully online community engagement leadership course and its service-learning component. A discussion on critical race theory and Latino critical theory frameworks as a social change model will transpire.
LEADERSHIP SCHOLARSHIP

25. Experience-Driven Leadership: The Role of Individual Agency and Workplace Affordances
   Vicki Lynn Woodside-Duggins, Training Development Officer, Training and Education, Canadian Armed Forces; PhD Candidate, Queen’s University
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6rvc5fp for Complete Description.
   Experience-driven leadership refers to specific experiences that enable individuals to evolve their leadership capabilities. These experiences are typically transformative because they are challenging and require individuals to deal with novel and ill-defined situations. This roundtable discussion will examine the role of individual agency and workplace affordances in leadership development within the workplace.

26. Mindfulness and Leadership: Connections to Leadership Theory
   Carolynn Komanski, Director of Youth Compliance Services, University of Florida
   Nicole Stedman, Professor, Agricultural Education and Communication, University of Florida (Co-Author)
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y5elg9bd for Complete Description.
   Mindful leadership is a marriage of mindfulness practice and, often, leadership behaviors. Few frameworks exist showing how mindfulness and leadership theory work together. Participants will learn about the Komanski (2018) framework for mindful leadership. The goal of the roundtable is to elicit participants’ thoughts and ideas for implementing theoretical frameworks around mindful leadership practices in leadership spaces.

27. Publishing, Reviewing, and Editing Opportunities With the Peer-Reviewed Journal of Leadership Studies
   Mark R. Ludorf, Professor, Psychology, Stephen F. Austin State University
   Anthony Middlebrooks, Associate Professor & Director of Graduate Programs, Horn Program in Entrepreneurship, University of Delaware
   Dan Jenkins, Chair & Associate Professor, Leadership and Organizational Studies, University of Southern Maine
   Erik Bean, Associate University Research Chair, Center for Leadership & Organizational Research, University of Phoenix (Co-Author)
   Clinton M. Stephens, Director, Leadership Studies Center, Emporia State University (Co-Author)
   Mark McCaslin, Dean of Research and Scholarship, School of Advanced Studies, University of Phoenix (Co-Author)
   Hinrich Eylers, Vice Provost, Academic Operations, University of Phoenix (Co-Author)
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y37ze7go for Complete Description.
   Editors of the peer-reviewed Journal of Leadership Studies (Wiley) will lead an interactive discussion sharing how the journal is providing publishing, reviewing, and editing opportunities for leadership scholars. Scholars who are interested in serving as reviewers and editors will be recruited. Scholars with questions about publishing in the journal are also invited.

   Catherine M. Rasmussen, Educator, Leadership & Civic Engagement, Center for Community Vitality, University of Minnesota
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y338vnot for Complete Description.
   Program sponsors, often public officials, need to justify spending for leadership programs. Beyond evaluation data on program outcomes, they need to know the economic benefits for communities. This roundtable will share evaluation efforts to document the return on investment of a program and solicit input on the discussion of how to put a dollar value to leadership development.

PEACE LEADERSHIP

29. Neighbors and Borders: Leading Communities Toward Just, Peaceful, and Moral Immigration Responses
   Jenifer Wolf Williams, Assistant Professor of Leadership, College of Graduate and Professional Studies, Abilene Christian University
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3cyw59r for Complete Description.
   Social conflict regarding immigration brings both tension and opportunity for growth. Leaders who wish to promote justice must also work to maintain peace. Their actions play a role in social outcomes. Prepared leaders can promote justice, prevent violence, and nurture societal moral equilibrium. Participants will discuss the concept of moral recovery and consider its application to contemporary immigration divides.

30. Transform Educators Into Courageous International Change Agents
   Katherine Temple, Director, Peace Educational Services, University of Phoenix
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3r96bwy for Complete Description.
   The roundtable will examine multiple methods for peace education and discuss how to transform educators into courageous international change agents. The discussion will consider leadership development ideas, approaches, strategies, and activities for teaching peace, tolerance, and acceptance. The intention is to develop resources that can be used and shared with the ILA community as a mission towards promoting world peace.
PHILOSOPHY, RELIGION, AND WORLDVIEWS

   Barbara J. Denison, Director, Organizational Development & Leadership Graduate Program, Sociology & Anthropology, Shippensburg University
   Jen Jones, Associate Professor & Department Coordinator, Communication, Seton Hill University
   David von Schlichten, Associate Professor of Religious Studies & Coordinator, Gender and Women's Studies Program, Religious Studies, Seton Hill University (Co-Author)
   Jessica Schrantz Huhn, Graduate Student, Organizational Development and Leadership, Shippensburg University (Co-Author)
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y63v4h8k for Complete Description.

   Women Religious are prophetic in their work; they defy conventions and hierarchies to offer alternative expressions of justice and mercy, putting reputation and even safety in jeopardy in the process. Discussion will show how learning about women religious informs pedagogy for leadership service learning, offering care and hope to the marginalized through subverting oppressive hegemones.

32. The Courageous Leadership of Submission?
   Lori Throupe, Instructor, Leadership and American Studies, Christopher Newport University
   Trustlove (Lizzie) Lewis, Undergraduate Student, Christopher Newport University
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2c8o2ho for Complete Description.

   What is submission? The concept promises clarifying value to understanding the leadership role-relationship and influence process. In relationship with authority, submission carries connotations of passivity and lacking capacity for critical contribution, therefore easily exploited, near powerless, and unequal in value. Its ties with conceptions of gender render it even further dismissed. Could submission as an active posture be courageous leadership?

PUBLIC LEADERSHIP

33. Civil Leadership as the Future of Leadership
   Steven P.M. De Waal, Founder and Chair, Public SPACE Foundation
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2gp9xar for Complete Description.

   New leadership is required because of fundamental change in public and civil domain. A new public leadership is required, based on character and values, public passion, and rhetorical skills that fit the new public domain. The research explored in my book Civil Leadership as the Future of Leadership: Harnessing the Disruptive Power of Citizens will be discussed.

34. The Commons Are Transforming the World
   Kathleen Curran, Principal, Intercultural Systems
   Randal J. Thompson, President & CEO, Dream Connect Global
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2spcred for Complete Description.

   Collaborative communities governing resources and services “in commons,” rather than through the State or private sector, are transforming the way society inter-relates and the underlying definition of being human. This roundtable discusses the commons, the ILA 2021 Leadership volume that explores them, and how you can join this exciting adventure by submitting a chapter proposal.

SUSTAINABILITY LEADERSHIP

35. Context Is Key! Environmental Issues as a Leadership Problem
   Nicole Marie Garcia, Student, Christopher Newport University
   Ivy Rose von Perbandt, Student, Christopher Newport University
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y34barv3 for Complete Description.

   Sustainability is often a polarized topic, especially in terms of the behavior of leaders. Rising concern for environmental preservation requires a call for action. By nature, we are products of the environment. Its problems are best understood to be our own. Dialogue can spark sustainable solutions through leadership by examining the perspectives of leaders, followers, and all contexts.
WOMEN AND LEADERSHIP

   Lindsay Allen, Global Coordinator & Doctoral Assistant, University of San Diego
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y4j4nnb5 for Complete Description.
   Understanding the factors influencing women’s decision to run for political office is essential in supporting the legitimacy of democracy. Despite an increased number of women leaders, an increase in women centered advocacy groups, and record numbers of women receiving advanced degrees, women are still underrepresented in the political arena. This roundtable discussion will brainstorm additional ways to reach political parity.

   Classrooms are embedded against the backdrop of current political climates that illustrate unrest, dissatisfaction, and inaction. In the United States and similar contexts, this is occurring at the heart of systems that must be assessed and redesigned to protect the very people at the receiving end of violence and discrimination. Herein are teaching and learning opportunities deserving of recognition.

Samantha A. Penney
Assessment Analyst in Talent and Leadership Development, Assessment, Lee Hecht Harrison Knightsbridge

Congratulations to Samantha A. Penney on her award-winning paper, which she wrote as a Ph.D. student in Industrial/Organizational Psychology at Saint Mary’s University. Learn more about her research by attending her session on Sunday. Jennifer Martineau, Senior Vice President for Research, Evaluation, and Societal Advancement at the Center for Creative Leadership, will be providing commentary on the paper.

Fostering a Psychologically Healthy Workplace Through Leadership

Sunday 27 October | 10:45 - 12:00 | SHAW - Meeting Room 201

Although the impact of psychologically healthy workplaces has received increased attention over recent years, leaders and organizations often feel challenged as to how to foster healthy workplaces. This research drew on the success of leadership interventions and the role of healthy workplaces and leaders as resources in promoting employee wellbeing. Study 1 involved conducting interviews and focus groups to develop a scale to assess leadership behaviors that contribute to a healthy workplace. Study 2 examined the psychometric properties of the scale. Study 3 consisted of developing a leadership training program and evaluated it using a longitudinal wait list control training design.
The ILA is pleased to partner with the Jepson School of Leadership Studies at the University of Richmond on the Fredric M. Jablin Doctoral Dissertation Award. This award is given annually to a scholar whose doctoral dissertation research, while on any topic and from any discipline, demonstrates substantial insights and implications for the study of leadership. The award was established to honor and celebrate the life of Dr. Fredric M. Jablin (1952-2004). Recipients are honored during a conference plenary and invited to give a talk on their work at ILA’s global conference. The Call for Submissions to the 2020 Fredric M. Jablin Award will be available online in early 2020.

Meeting Room 101 | Presentations | Women & Leadership

Nontraditional Perspectives on Leadership Across Contexts
Chair: Lynne E. Devnew, Distinguished Research Fellow, College of Doctoral Studies, University of Phoenix
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3xbwaje for Session Details.

Women, Religion, and Leadership: Telling the Stories
Barbara J. Denison, Director, Organizational Development & Leadership Graduate Program, Sociology & Anthropology, Shippensburg University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6orab92 for Complete Description.
Examining socially constructed narratives, I propose a typology of women leaders in religion using a four-cell paradigm of authority strategies employed by exemplars Hilda of Whitby, Theodelinda, Teresa of Avila, and Dorothy Day. Contrasting leadership styles provides a measure for overcoming gender limitations in organizational success, creating a typology intersecting a female leader’s place institutionally with personal role identity.

Leadership Attainment of 14 Women in Agriculture: A Qualitative Study
Carrie Ann Stephens, Professor; Agricultural Leadership, Education and Communications; University of Tennessee
Shelby Brawner, Extension Specialist; Department of 4-H Youth Development and Agricultural Leadership, Education and Communications; The University of Tennessee (Co-Author)
The purpose of this study was to highlight and discuss the backgrounds and successes of women in agricultural leadership roles. The central research question was: How have women in agriculture attained their leadership role in a male dominated field?

Women in Intercollegiate Athletic Leadership
Cheyenne C. Luzynski, Teaching Assistant Professor, Leadership Studies Program, West Virginia University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yylpmrpx for Complete Description.
Title IX has increased women’s participation rates in intercollegiate athletics tenfold, yet women’s representation in athletic leadership remains marginal compared to men. This presentation will discuss the social construction of gender as it relates to athletic leadership. The history of sporting activities as a mechanism to shape and perpetuate masculine and feminine culture will be explored through organizational theory.

The Courage to Lead: Women in Sports Media
Julie Silbar, Doctoral Student, School of Leadership Studies, Gonzaga University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3v7jxb for Complete Description.
This presentation will focus on studies of women in sports media and the ways in which, despite the sexism many faced in their profession, they emerged as successful, resilient leaders in their industry.

Meeting Room 102 | Symposium | Public Leadership

Courage to Lead in Extreme and Diverse Contexts
Chair: Mary Ann Gwoost Hennen, Associate Extension Professor, Leadership and Civic Engagement, Extension Center for Community Vitality, University of Minnesota Extension
Commentator: Yulia Tolstikov-Mast, Lead Faculty & Associate Professor, Indiana Tech
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yxba38eb for Session Details.
Leadership and context are uniquely connected. Extreme contexts, characterized by high emotional intensity, physical risks, and volatility require exceptional leaders. This symposium presents research on change agents within a variety of contexts.
Contextual Intelligence Behaviors of Female Hospital Managers in the United States
Matthew Kutz, Faculty, Bowling Green State University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2kovwmm for Complete Description.
Research reports healthcare is a dynamic and challenging work environment with high levels of ambiguity and volatility. New models are needed that present a new framework for this type of environment. Contextual intelligence (CI) is a useful and viable solution to leading in turbulent environments. The study explored CI behaviors of female healthcare managers from 13 different hospitals.

Qualitative Case Study to Understand Change Agent Effectiveness in K-12 Education in Liberia

Visit http://tinyurl.com/y42pe93w for Complete Description.
A qualitative case study to gain a deeper understanding of change agent effectiveness in K-12 education in Liberia will be presented. Rogers’ diffusion of innovation theory is used to operationalize change agents in the research context.

Alignment of Stakeholders’ Motivation and Goals: Comparison of Education of Ottawa and Chippewa Tribes
Tana Janielle Baldwin, Student, Indiana Tech
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3f6cegn for Complete Description.
The presenter will look at the alignment of stakeholder’s motivation and goals so that courageous educational leaders can reform educational practice to ensure cultural self-determination of American Indian peoples. Incidentally, courage is another key value of many American Indian tribes.

Tactical Combat Leadership: Lessons From an Ethnographic Study
Andrew Ledford, Assistant Professor; Leadership, Ethics, and Law; United States Naval Academy
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yy5rfh4w for Complete Description.
What do military leaders in extreme situations experience, need, and know? Ethnographic research and interviews with special operations leaders reveal principles including risk-mitigation, the simplification of the complex, and trust. This critical leadership requires these basic principles as well as a cultural adaptation that is demonstrated in the special operations community. The tactical combat leader must work within this culture and with these principles to be successful.

Leading in Extreme Situations: How Can Leaders Improve?
Deirdre Dixon, Assistant Professor, College of Business, University of Tampa
Because dangerous situations are difficult to study, and most of the literature is theoretical, little is known about how leaders communicate with their teams and make sense of these contexts. Our qualitative study researched how leaders sensemake and sensegive to their teams and how this affects in extremis situation outcomes. We found that leaders who have mental flexibility, sense of duty, and self-confidence were the best prepared for these dangerous situations.

Most faculty who become academic administrators are tapped for such positions rather than aspire to them. Further, they are not trained or socialized for the very different role. Findings from 50 interviews provide insight into the tensions experienced by faculty who recently transitioned to academic administration, and the mindsets and practices drawn upon for the courage to engage the tensions.

Courage to Trust in Uncertain Times
Phyllis Brooks Collins, Director & Assistant Professor, Integrated Studies, Delaware State University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y258ux75 for Complete Description.
This presentation will revisit previous research conducted to explore the relationship and trust development that occurs between a faculty member and their immediate supervisor (Collins, 2015). Since that time, higher education has experienced a paradigm shift. This qualitative research utilized the construct of leader-member exchange theory as its lens to guide the discussion of relevant emerging themes.
The Challenges of Student Peer Leadership: Community Builders and Campus Bureaucrats

James Douglas Stump, Assistant Professor, Education, St. Bonaventure University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yxu3qawk for Complete Description.

Most universities provide many opportunities for students to be leaders. Providing student leadership opportunities can positively influence the development of leadership qualities to serve students post-graduation. By placing students in these positions there exists the potential to create a unique set of challenges. This research focused on the specific realities of the challenges associated with leading peers.

Publish or Perish? Sustainable Leadership & Academic Wellbeing at Business Schools

Julia Milner, Professor, EDHEC Business School
Peter Daly, Professor, EDHEC (Co-Author)
Trenton Milner, Visiting Professor, ICLC (Co-Author)
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3nnz38b for Complete Description.

This study sheds light on the current challenges of research performance experienced by academics within business schools and the effect on the individual level of wellbeing. Using both in-depth interviews and a questionnaire, we identify the pressures around ‘publish or perish’ within business schools and the consequences for the individual.

Toward New Perspectives on Leadership: A Multi-Focus Approach in Higher Education in Mexico
Chair: Kathy Guthrie, Associate Professor, Leadership Learning Research Center, Florida State University
Commentator: Maria Rivera, Strategic Projects, Instituto de Liderazgo, Tecnológico de Monterrey
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6m4rn43 for Session Details.

This symposium brings together scientific research and evidence-based practice of leadership development in a higher education context in Mexico. It offers five different innovative approaches to the development of a new leadership focused on human flourishing: 1) conceptual development, 2) student development, 3) strengthening leadership education, 4) employee leadership development, and 5) leadership scholarship.

Leadership and Human Flourishing
Santiago Vazquez, Director, Leadership Institute, Tecnológico de Monterrey
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y34hs9l7 for Complete Description.

The presenter will review the research on leadership of the past 10 years, and present practical experience from the Leadership Institute at Tecnológico de Monterrey on the reinvention of the leadership concept and its development from positive psychology. Ultimately, a new perspective is presented where the leader is that which flourishes by contributing to the flourishing of others.

Strengthening Tecnológico de Monterrey Students’ Education as Leaders

Leadership as a Mode of Being: Talking About Traffic and Not Cars

Nathan Harter, Professor, Leadership and American Studies, Christopher Newport University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yx964wkz for Complete Description.

In his study of power, Heidegger offered a provocative alternative. Leadership is a mode of being in response to the boundless present, purposefully forbearing some things and resisting others, pursuing some things and fleeing others, toward a desired future consonant with an underlying structure in our souls — a structure we exemplify or invoke when we engage others in discourse.

Leader, Leading, and Leadership: A Holistic Look at the Rhetoric and Phenomena of Leadership

Kem Gambrell, Associate Professor & Chair, Doctoral Program in Leadership Studies, Gonzaga University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y638x4bp for Complete Description.

The field of leadership has been negligent in clearly delineating the differences between being a leader, the act of leading, and the phenomena of leadership. By oversimplifying these as the same thing, a deeper understanding of how people are in relationship and how they navigate context and situation is severely lacking. This presentation will discuss the ramifications of these over generalizations.

From Leadership to Humanship: Teaching Leadership as Constitutive of Human Social Systems

Thomas J. Yannuzzi, Executive Director, Student Leadership and Service, Kennesaw State University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yyhb8ls3 for Complete Description.

This paper posits a re-framing of leadership that attempts to transcend the false bifurcation between position and process; emphasizing humans’ shared, interactive capacity to impact complex, problematic, relational space toward more productive futures. Leadership, then, becomes constitutive of social worlds and, while recognizing leaders and followers, positions leadership in problematic social moments into which multiple people inter-act to lead together.

Nature-Centered Leadership: The Courage to Advocate for Nature

Spencer S. Stober, Professor of Biology and Educational Leadership, School of Graduate Studies, Alvernia University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y24uagfc for Complete Description.

Nature-centered leaders advocate for nature. This takes courage, particularly if one argues that the planet is a stakeholder and worthy of greater consideration than profits, or even people, in planning for the triple-bottom-line (people, planet, profit). This presentation uses stakeholder theory to argue that the planet — as a metaphor — should have priority standing in decision-making within organizations.

Visit http://tinyurl.com/y5tclh5x for Complete Description.

The authentic leadership literature advises managers to be true to themselves, yet it currently fails to acknowledge and assimilate findings about the multifaceted nature of the self. We incorporate a range of theoretical and empirical research on multiple identities to develop an integrative framework that helps us to be more specific about the particular self to be examined.
Application of Leadership Theories Across Cultures and Work Contexts: A Four-Nation Study
S. Aqeel Tirmizi, Professor of Leadership, Management & Service, Antioch University
It is important to examine the relevance of existing leadership theories amidst changing global dynamics. We studied transformational, transactional, adaptive, servant, authoritative, values-based and spiritual leadership theories across multiple sectors in Jordan, Pakistan, the Caribbean, and the United States. Our findings inform the relevance of these theories across multiple contexts.

Discovering Inclusion in Organizations: A Case Study and Grounded Theory Methodological Approach
Maria E. Dezenberg, Provost, Academics & Student Development, Richard Bland College of William & Mary
Elizabeth L. Holloway, Professor, Graduate School of Leadership and Change, Antioch University
This paper addresses how the application of grounded theory methodology and an exploratory case study can uncover how inclusion evolves across the macro, meso, and micro levels of organizational life. The methodology and research design are detailed along with a high-level overview of the study’s findings to demonstrate how inclusion’s behavioral components were discovered across an inclusive organizational context.

(Re)Creating Equitable Spaces: Experiences of Racialized and Indigenous Leaders in Canadian Universities
Leena Yahia, Queen’s University
Using semi-structured interviews and interpretation through the framework of critical race theory, ten racialized and Indigenous leaders were interviewed in relation to their leadership experiences in Canadian universities. Findings show a dynamic, fluid, and evolving nature of leadership practiced by participating leaders to (re)create equitable spaces that move diversity beyond diversification of bodies to the diversification of thoughts and ideas.

Exploring Leadership Efficacy Within the Behavioral Dimension of Student Activities Boards
Jennifer Batchelder, Graduate Research Assistant, Leadership Learning Research Center, Florida State University
This paper will discuss the importance of building the leadership efficacy of members of student activities boards in order to better their understanding of themselves and others as they coordinate cultural programs with the intention of spreading knowledge and appreciation of diverse cultures. This paper specifically utilizes the culturally relevant leadership learning model as a framework to provide guidance for advisors.

Examining Generativity Development Among College Student Leaders Who Mentor
Hannah Sunderman, Doctoral Research Assistant; Agricultural Leadership, Education and Communication; University of Nebraska-Lincoln
Lindsay Hastings, Clifton Professor in Mentoring Research & Director; Nebraska Human Resources Institute; Agricultural Leadership, Education, and Communication; University of Nebraska-Lincoln
This two-phase study examined care for the next generation (i.e. generativity) among college student leaders who mentor. Utilizing MANCOVA, the first, cross-sectional phase revealed that age did not significantly influence generativity. However, using multilevel modeling, the second, longitudinal phase demonstrated significant growth in generative concern. These findings inform college student leadership development, mentoring, and the benefits of advanced statistical techniques.

Good Chinese Leadership: An Analysis of Personal Stories of Inspiration From the Daqing Oilfield

Michael Sheridan Miles, Visiting Professor, Telfer School of Management, University of Ottawa
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yvo5km68 for Complete Description.

Research related to Chinese leadership has a long history. The range of traditional leadership philosophies (Confucius vs. Xun Tsu) is broad and contrasting. This study analyzes personal stories of 70 Chinese managers concerning “good leadership” in a modern State-Owned Enterprise. Analysis identified nine core themes associated with effective leadership practice and links these to both traditional and more modern Chinese philosophy.

Questioning the Cultural Glass Ceiling: Asian Leader Advancement in Non-Asian Global HQ Corporations

Kathleen A. Curran, Doctoral Candidate, Human and Organizational Systems, Fielding Graduate University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y5c6ptdv for Complete Description.

Underrepresentation of Asian leaders in senior leadership roles in corporations of non-Asian origins inspired research that revealed perceived factors supporting and impeding upward advancement. Questioning the existence of a cultural glass ceiling, findings distinguish between individual, culturally influenced factors and those externally generated from within the corporate context. Implications suggest interrelatedness among global identity, leadership, and corporate cultural dynamics.

Applying theories based on complexity science from both leadership and public administration disciplines, this presentation will explore leading change from a practitioner’s perspective in one of the most interesting and controversial social experiments of our time.

Speaking Truth to Power: Women Activists in Authoritarian, Patriarchal Countries
Elizabeth Stork, Professor, Organizational Leadership, Robert Morris University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yyo9l3uy for Complete Description.
Women living under patriarchal, religion-dominated, and authoritarian governments face clear boundaries about what is women’s work. In Armenia, Jordan, and Ethiopia some are courageously and successfully working to challenge and change unjust traditions, practices, and policies by speaking truth to power. As governments around the world become increasingly authoritarian, we may have much to learn.

Statistics for the percentage of women on boards suggest a stubborn resistance to equality with men. In 2017, women held only 15% of board seats globally. Canada, host to this year’s conference, was only slightly ahead in 2018 at 16%, with 31% of issuers having no women on their boards. While countries such as Norway, Iceland, Finland, and Sweden have nearly doubled the number of women on boards (approximately 34%) with their specific targets, quotas, and penalties for not meeting regulations, the business case, alone, for women on boards ought to convince other countries to follow suit.

Courage in Action: How Company Core Values and Work Passion Make the Difference in Times of Crisis and Calm
Chair: David W. Barnett, Owner/Principal, Grand Arbor Advisors
Commentator: Michael Chikeleze, Associate Professor of Leadership Studies, Xavier University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6ykkyer for Session Details.

Core values and work passion have been shown to have a positive impact on culture, hiring, compensation, profitability, and other organizational measures. Using results from the multi-year Return on Values (ROV) project, this session provides three case studies on the relationship between values, passion, and performance in a catering company, an elder care organization, and a community bank.

This symposium will present three case studies of courageous social justice leaders, all active in civil rights movements of minoritized groups. Each case presents the leader, the important contextual factors they operated within, and how the leader’s story informs transformational, adaptive, or authentic leadership. Collectively, the cases illustrate various ways social movement leaders mobilize followers to join their cause.

The “Godfather of the Civil Rights Movement”: A Case Study of Dr. Benjamin E. Mays
James E. Lee, Graduate Teaching Assistant; Agricultural Leadership, Education and Communication; University of Nebraska-Lincoln
Dr. Mays spent six decades fighting for freedom, equality, and justice. As a college president he mentored African American students and inspired them to pursue excellence and a life of social reform. Many of his mentees, including MLK, became leaders in the U.S. Civil Rights Movement. Mays’ vision and generativity created a ripple effect that illustrates the power of transformational leadership.

Challenges facing higher education include changes in modality, the age of adult students, and adjunct faculty. Administrative leaders must navigate concerns of disgruntled students who are apprehensive about adjunct qualifications while trying to ensure adjunct faculty feel a sense of inclusion at the institution. Using e-leadership and inclusionary leadership, this workshop provides resources on managing these complexities with integrity and courage.

What does the courage to lead look like? Our study of leaders working in Asia suggests that leadership courage could be a judgment of the leader’s choice, specifically when leaders encounter a trade-off between the leader's own self-interest and that of the greater good (for example, the organization’s or a follower’s interest). We also offer a tentative theory of leadership courage.
35. Workplace Courage: A Critical Factor for Successful Organizations

   Dina Pozzo, Director, insium Pty Ltd
   Peggy Kern, Associate Professor, Centre for Positive Psychology, University of Melbourne (Co-Author)
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/yyplbdzw for Complete Description.

   There is little data on workplace courage in the world. To develop a better understanding of workplace courage, 366 employees across a range of industries completed questions on 38 specific workplace situations. They were asked to consider how worthwhile the situation was, the risk associated with the situation, and how willing they were to act on the situation.

36. Learning from Failure: A Journey of Leadership Courage

   Ashish Banerjee, Principal, Human Capital Management, Balaji Consulting Group
   Visit tinyurl.com/y2tu4h4kj for Complete Description.

   Organizations today live in a competitive global landscape. They are confronted with numerous demands to ensure strong financial results. With constant pressure on organizations to improve their financial footprint, failure is inevitable. The ability for an organization’s leader to demonstrate leadership courage in the face of failure becomes paramount for any organization attempting to obtain a competitive advantage.

PHILOSOPHY, RELIGION AND WORLDVIEWS

37. Parker Palmer, Thomas Merton, and Courageous Authenticity

   Zachary Carl Wooten, PhD Student, Leadership Studies, Alvernia University
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y4ocscoh for Complete Description.

   This poster will showcase a literature review and analysis of theologian Thomas Merton’s influence on educator Parker Palmer’s writings and offer a framework for courage and authenticity based on the influential life and writings of these two scholars, writers, activists, and thought leaders. Such understanding increases learning related to authentic leadership and courage.

38. Emotional Leadership: A New Leadership Style Emulated by Princess Diana of Wales

   Jullien Searfoss, PhD Candidate, Alvernia University
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3bh4bml for Complete Description.

   Princess Diana is the heart behind a new approach to leadership: Emotional Leadership. Princess Diana believed that “everyone needs to be valued. Everyone has the potential to give something back if only they had the chance.” Diana spread knowledge about social issues that led people to appreciate her heart-centered approach to life and her core of sympathy and love.

39. Mindfulness and Fearlessness in Leadership

   Andrew Gordon, PhD Student, Center for Values-Driven Leadership, Benedictine University
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6s86pgw for Complete Description.

   How can we bring fearlessness to leadership? This poster will introduce mindful leadership, leveraging the power of meditation to foster self-awareness. This awareness then extends to the organization and to followers, encouraging confidence and healthiness. Fearlessness requires us to courageously move beyond fear into fearlessness.

PUBLIC LEADERSHIP

40. Courageous Ideas: Emerging Scholars Research Into Servant Leadership in Policing and Educational Settings

   Les Sylven, Police Chief, Central Saanich Police Service
   Jessica Willows, PhD Candidate, Educational Psychology and Leadership Studies, University of Victoria
   Amy Mills-Guest, PhD student, University of Victoria
   Visit http://tinyurl.com/yyrr2ldv for Complete Description.

   Three emerging scholars compare and contrast their new research ideas on the application of servant leadership for Canadian police officers, public school teachers, and elementary school students. Their individual research questions and proposed methodologies will be highlighted in a poster format as will the areas where their research connects and where it is vastly different.

The Hosted Poster Session will be split into two shifts, 18:30-19:30 and 19:00-20:00. Presenters of odd numbered posters will be present from 18:30-19:30 and presenters of even numbered posters will be present from 19:00-20:00.
41. Is It Worth It? The Effects of Intimidation on Women of Color Who Seek Political Office
Charise Jones-Wheeler, Real Estate Agent & Ph.D. Student, Eastern University
This poster will present a case study exploring the political careers of Senator Kamala Harris and Representative Kiah Morris. It will highlight some of the intimidations responsible for the disproportionately low number of women of color seeking elected political office in the United States. This research can help reduce or eliminate these intimidations; leading to a more representative and effective government with greater degrees of egalitarianism.

42. Emotional Intelligence as an Attribute of Fire Service Leaders
Paul D. Froman, Graduate Student, Leadership Studies, University of Southern Maine
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yxntr6w4 for Complete Description.
In the next ten years, fire service will face external and internal challenges including changing department structures, its role in the community, demands placed on its personnel, and a new generation of firefighters joining the service. This study explores ways to improve skills of fire service leaders, particularly the role of emotional intelligence in successful leadership practices.

WOMEN AND LEADERSHIP

Lucy J. Franks, Professor, Management, Bellevue University
Fred M. Lang, Professor, Management, Bellevue University
Stephen J. Linenberger, Professor, College of Business, Bellevue University (Co-Author)
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yxv6uvov for Complete Description.
In this era of the #MeToo movement, women need to know their leadership roots. Countless women have led, carving a courageous path for future women to follow. They encountered adversity, threats to safety, and supreme indifference. Yet, they persevered and transformed aspects of government, society, and humanity. This poster session will detail the contributions of women who changed the world.

YOUTH LEADERSHIP

46. The Influence of Outdoor Experience Program to the Development of Youth Leadership
Kanglei Meng, Assistant Professor, Psychology, Beijing Normal University
Xiaoyong Xu, Professor, Faculty of Psychology, Beijing Normal University
Cheng Nuo, Department of Psychology, Beijing Normal University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y5nwyyfc for Complete Description.
In China, a traditional country, studying in the classroom is the main form of learning. But, with increasing attention on learning from experience, parents are allowing their children to go outside and have adventures. In this research, the authors investigated two youth leadership programs in China in order to find out the differences an outdoor experience could bring.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

You are invited to contribute a research article or a comprehensive review for publication after successful peer-review processing in Administrative Sciences (ISSN 2076-3387). Administrative Sciences is a multidisciplinary journal for the broad field of organization studies. It publishes research articles, reviews and other content, in open access format, released on the internet immediately after acceptance. As an open access journal, we believe that academic knowledge should be available to all, for free, so that others can build upon the knowledge shared. Open availability will encourage a stronger evidence-based management practice. The scientific community and the public have unlimited, free access to the content as soon as it is published. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors. We also invite you to offer any proposals for Special Issue topics that you feel would be of interest.

Editorial Board Member Recruitment

Are you an expert seeking to contribute your expertise and give back to the scientific community? If you believe that rigorous research deserves to be published, regardless of its outcome or perceived impact, you may be a perfect fit for the Administrative Sciences Editorial Board.

BAM2020 Conference will be hosted by Alliance Manchester Business School in September 2020

Innovating for a Sustainable Future

Innovation has transformed, and continues to transform, our world. Innovation creates new products, new technologies, and new business models. Our knowledge of how to manage the innovation process, and the organisational systems used to guide it, has grown in depth and sophistication. However, while the benefits of innovation are there for all to see, the negative impact on society and the environment are difficult to ignore. We are at a pivotal moment in the history of innovation where our ideas of how innovation should be managed and directed are undergoing profound change. The model of innovation that dominates today reflect the goals of the profit-making enterprise. These goals shape project selection, resource allocation, and marketing strategy. The negative externalities of this model – the costs to society and the environment – were always visible but were tolerated as necessary for economic growth. As we come to realise that growth at any price is no longer acceptable, we also see that it is not enough for innovation to create new products and new technologies. Managing the innovation process must now take into consideration responsibility to society and the environment.

Alliance Manchester Business School is a world leading centre of research on sustainable business and responsible innovation. Researchers at the school have made significant contributions to our understanding on innovation and sustainability, focusing on transition pathways, sustainable consumption, business response to climate change, renewable energy, and impact of environmental regulations on technological change.

Manchester is the cradle of the industrial revolution. Manchester is also the place where the environmental costs of industrialisation became apparent. BAM2020 will provide researchers with the opportunity to experience a city where a transformation of the relationship between business and the environment is creating a sustainable future.

Callously Courageous, or Astonishingly Ludicrous? A Case of Elon Musk’s Communication
Lazarina Topuzova, Associate Professor, Organizational Leadership, Robert Morris University
Aditya Simha, Associate Professor, Management, University of Wisconsin - Whitewater
Anish Dave, Associate Professor, English & Modern Languages, Georgia Southwestern State University (Co-Author)
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yyyp2het for Complete Description.
In this presentation, we will analyze the various communication blunders Elon Musk made in 2018, including public communications such as tweets and interviews, and discuss the leader communication challenges his case exemplifies.

Collective Leadership From Organization and Discourse Studies Perspectives
Robyn V. Remke, Director MBA Programme, Entrepreneurship and Strategy, University of Lancaster
Anne Murphy, Ph.D. Candidate, Linguistics & Leadership and Management, Lancaster University (Co-Author)
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y56v3pzy for Complete Description.
This paper explores key literature on collective dimensions of leadership, synthesizing perspectives from organization studies and discourse studies. The paper aims to identify common themes for research and practice. Two interconnected questions guide this literature review: What collective leadership practices and behaviors are identified in the literatures of organization and discourse studies? Which common themes and preoccupations emerge?

Intersections of Discourse and Leadership of Women Elected Officials
Trisha Gott, Interim Director & Assistant Professor, Staley School of Leadership Studies, Kansas State University
R.J. Youngblood, Assistant Director, Academic Achievement Center, Kansas State University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yyvpc2nr for Complete Description.
Researchers will share findings from a 2019 study that explored the rhetoric of women elected officials through analyzing public discourses. Discourse creates and deconstructs social, political, economic, and other structures that guide society. Researchers will share emerging discourses of leadership as they intersect with political role and public office and discuss how notions of leadership are produced through public discourse.

Discursive Practices to Impose a Leadership Meaning in the Business Media
Kedir Assefa Tessema, Assistant Professor, Wilkes University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yzyysaa for Complete Description.
This paper introduces the notion of leadership stakeholders and analyses the use of business media to impose a dominant meaning of leadership. The discourse analysis shows that stakeholders not only grant primacy of the leader in their portrayal, they also obscure follower agency and leadership context.

Good Leaders Are Readers and Storytellers: Lessons From Storytelling Leaders
John Shoup, Professor & Executive Director, Leadership, Dr. Paul & Annie Kienel Leadership Institute – California Baptist University
Troy Hinrichs, Professor, History & Government, California Baptist University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y4pc3rwz for Complete Description.
People love good stories, and even better, good stories told well. This paper demonstrates how great literature and strategic storytelling can equip leaders to be more effective. This paper uses case studies of 12 successful business and political leaders to demonstrate the competitive advantage of well-crafted endearing organizational stories.

New Populist Leadership and Followership: Comparative Studies of Donald Trump, Nigel Farage, and Sebastian Kurz

Seoyeon Kim, PhD Candidate, International Studies, Ewha Womans University
Kisuk Cho, Professor, Graduate School of International Studies, Ewha Womans University (Co-Author)
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2vtyy5k for Complete Description.

The study illuminates the major features of populist leadership (as opposed to authentic leadership and transformational leadership) of three representative leaders. Their followers will be compared with those of populism from 1970s Latin America. The presenter will offer a partial answer to why recent election pollsters failed to give accurate predictions and will highlight the threat populism poses.

Crisis Leadership in Rural Communities Following Hurricane Michael

Angela B. Lindsey, Assistant Professor, Family, Youth and Community Sciences, University of Florida
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6ju688c for Complete Description.

The most devastating impacts from Hurricane Michael were in rural communities. Of the 12 counties that were declared a disaster, 10 were rural. UF/IFAS Extension faculty were called upon before, during, and after the storm and operated independently to ensure needs were met. This research examined management practices of vulnerable communities before, during, and after Hurricane Michael.

Proposal for a Succession Planning Model in Public Organizations

Abiodun Bakare, HR Consultant, HavEngagement LLC.
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3l5m92r for Complete Description.

A well-crafted and formal succession plan, especially in the areas of developing internal candidates’ competency levels, knowledge transfer, and knowledge preservation, is a viable goal for organizational continuity. A proposal recommending four succession planning models to respond to the ongoing trend of mass retirement by Baby Boomers in public organizations will be shared.

Professional Hurt: A Call for Courageous Public Sector Leadership

Ruby M. Brown, Chief Executive Officer, Management Institute for National Development (MIND)
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y4ytcggb for Complete Description.

The presentation will discuss how to support leaders unpacking professional hurt. It will look at how it happens, why it happens, when it happens, and what it does to people as well as what it takes to translate painful experiences into constructive growth, the barriers to overcome, and the lessons learnt that can be applied to courageously navigate and mitigate these challenges and thrive.

Divided We Fail: Coming Together to Address Difficult Gender Dilemmas

Loretta Brill, CEO, Nxknowledge Corporation
Shawn Donaldson, Adjunct Research Professor, Department of Geography and Environmental Studies, Carleton University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y4rylggb for Complete Description.

Linking to conceptual models, innovative practices, and cross-sector learnings, presenters will examine challenges ranging from the imposter syndrome to gender and generational prejudice and will provide concrete recommendations for ways to ignite change that builds and sustain cultures — particularly in the science field — that are innovative, inclusive, and supportive.

Courage Needed for Emerging Issues in Higher Educational Leadership
Robert Elkington, President & CEO, Global Leadership Initiatives, Inc.
Robin Kay, Assistant Dean, Program Director of Graduate Studies, and Full Professor; Education; University of Ontario Institute of Technology (Co-Author)
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2xrpx7sx for Complete Description.
This paper presents the results of round one of a Lockean Delphi survey with 31 higher education leaders around the world in a bid to gauge their sense of the emerging issues in higher educational leadership within Industry 4.0. Four issues facing Higher Educational leadership emerged in this first round survey.

The Poverty of Critical Hope in Higher Education: A Call to Leadership and Action Against Relativism
Matthew Yates, Director, Education Abroad, University of Connecticut
Leigh Fine, Assistant Director, Residential Communities and Programming, Honors Program, University of Connecticut
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yxpmlzkf for Complete Description.
Under the guise of pluralism, some spaces in higher education have devolved into a relativism that ironically squelches social and intellectual diversity. Fortunately, critical hope may provide a means of articulating the limits of relativism, honor the existential dread that relativism has generated in modern discourse, and provide new directions for an ethical commitment to pluralism for higher education leaders.

Steering Through the Turbulent Waters of Academic Leadership in Higher Education
Vicki Squires, Associate Professor, Educational Administration, University of Saskatchewan
Anna Okapiec, Graduate student, Educational Administration, University of Saskatchewan (Co-Author)
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2ldr2f9 for Complete Description.
This conceptual paper examines the current turbulent state of academic leadership in post-secondary institutions and suggests that Bolman and Deal's (2003) four frames can be a useful tool or lens to analyze the complex structures and governance processes of higher education. Based on that analysis, optimal approaches to address these challenges can be constructed.

Academic Leadership: A Case Study of the Academic Leadership Experience in One Canadian University
Shannon M. Hill, Learning & Development Specialist, Human Resources, Queen's University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yxa8buux for Complete Description.
Much has been written and studied regarding the changes impacting higher education and how these changes affect the ability of institutions of higher education to succeed and thrive in today's uncertain environment. The key is finding a leadership approach that will have significance to the distinct structure, culture, and purpose that is the higher education context.

Courageously Intentional: The Need for Higher Education Institutions to Intentionally Develop Mid-Managers
Sherri Watson, Director of Success Coaching and Major Exploration, Old Dominion University
Cynthia Tomovic, Professor, Stem Education and Professional Studies, Old Dominion University
Ellen Neufeldt, Vice President, Student Engagement and Enrollment Services, Old Dominion University (Co-Author)
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yyp8r7ba for Complete Description.
This paper outlines the gap in training and development practices in the student affairs field, specifically of mid-level managers. It describes opportunities for institutions of higher education to be courageously intentional in developing mid-level managers in student affairs given the complexities of their roles, and their impact on student success and organizational sustainability.

How Servant Leaders Support Basic Psychological Needs in Followers
Samuel Burch, Gonzaga University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6nupemy for Complete Description.
The role of servant leadership in supporting basic psychological needs (self-determination theory) was studied through mixed-methods research conducted at two organizations in the United States. The study supports a connection between servant leadership and basic needs, based on survey and interview data. This research has implications for both servant leadership theory and leader development in supporting basic needs in followers.

Courageous Leadership & Romance of Followership to Create and Leverage Courageous Followers & Followership
Gary Crutchfield, Production Engineering Manager, Aircraft on Ground Services Group, Boeing
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2yjs5zg for Complete Description.
In the fast-paced, global, competitive environment, courageous leaders must trust, develop, and enable courageous followers so active followership continually grows and ensures competitive advantage. Courage is required of leaders to employ romance of followership theory to leverage courageous followers as never before to enable the full spectrum and range of follower driven support that is crucial to organizational success.

Workplace and Global Wellbeing: Utilizing Leader-Follower Trade (LFT) and Global Leading-Following Trade (GLFT) Approaches
Petros G. Malakyan, Associate Professor, Organizational Leadership, Robert Morris University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y2ty8kch for Complete Description.
When individuals cultivate and utilize multiple role identities in organizations by trading or exchanging their leading and following roles (LFT approach), it may reduce workplace stress and they may feel physically and psychologically healthier. Subsequently, when individualistic and task-oriented cultural clusters, such as North-Western cultures, engage in a global leading-following trade or exchange (GLFT approach) by sharing their leading competencies with relational and collectivistic cultural clusters, such as South-Eastern cultures, who exhibit following competencies, humanity may secure the wellbeing of the planet Earth for the current and next generation.

Employee Engagement: The Role of Relational Trust Between the Leader and Follower in an Organization
Gwyn Schramm, PhD Student, Leadership Studies, Indiana Wesleyan University
Do you, as an employee or manager, have the courage to invest in building trusting relationships? Business leaders measure employee engagement because of its perceived correlation with organizational productivity and consider trust a contributing factor. Many studies and development programs about building trust focus on ethics and authenticity, but this presenter will explore the correlation of building relational trust and engagement.

Globalization and the Banking Industry: A Case Study of Citizen’s Bank
Lizzie Bronte, Doctoral Student, Indiana Tech
Anastasia Nana Ama Agyeiba Asare, Doctoral Student, Indiana Tech
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y4m8gqgt for Complete Description.
This presentation analyzes a bank’s strategic steps towards success in a globalized market. The success is credited to leaderships’ global mindset, risk-taking initiatives, and willingness to adapt to the changing world of doing business. Despite complexities like government regulations, cultural diversity, and global financial crisis, this bank, through its forward-thinking leadership, was able to succeed and achieve sustainability.
Increasing Resilience Through Courageous Leadership

Michael Holenweger, PhD, Leadership and Communication Studies, ETH Zurich
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y52wgnd for Complete Description.

Resilience-building leadership is influenced by several leadership styles: participative leadership, systemic leadership, positive leadership, transformational leadership, and servant leadership. Leaders who want to promote the resilience of their teams start with themselves. Leaders promote trust in their employees and within the team, give their employees room to maneuver, and help them to build on their strengths.

Nunavut Sivuniksavut is an Ottawa-based post-secondary leadership development program for Inuit youth primarily from the new territory of Nunavut. A key premise of the program, based on Freirean pedagogy, is that students’ sense of who they are as Inuit, collectively and personally, is an essential starting point of their leadership path. This approach has proven to be fundamental to the youth asserting themselves in taking next steps, with graduates demonstrating high levels of engagement in both further study and work. The purpose of this session is to share what we have learned and will be a microcosm of what the Inuit participants of the program experience including overviews, experiential teaching, and dialogue.

A new open access platform that supports easy, rapid and transparent publishing

Publish open access in the Responsible Management gateway

The Globally Responsible Leadership Initiative (GRLI) and Emerald Publishing share a commitment to ensuring effective knowledge transfer that will provide real impact in solving the issues facing the world today. As a result, the two organizations have forged a partnership to make a real impact in exploring and accelerating radical transformation of learning, living and leading which the urgency of our times requires.

The fruit of this partnership is a GRLI collection on the Responsible Management gateway of Emerald Open Research.

Why choose Emerald Open Research?
Speed - the platform supports rapid publication meaning your research is disseminated quickly.
Multiple formats - the platform published research in non-traditional formats e.g. case studies, data notes and reviews.
Open peer review - select your own reviewers.
Real time metrics - you will be able to access downloads, citations and altmetrics in real time.
Real impact - contribute to societal challenges quickly due to the research being immediately available to a wide audience.

Leadership programs often include future-oriented (normative) interventions such as creating a personal leadership vision or describing an ideal leadership brand. There are few activities, however, that require students to evaluate their current needs. The personal operating manual (POM) is a tool that assists in critical self-evaluation, fostering double loop learning. A POM also has immediate workplace value for enhancing leading, following, and partnering.

Bound by Blood in the Family Firm? Examining the Effects of Trusting and Feeling Trusted in the Family Firm Top Management Team

This dissertation integrates the organizational trust and family firm literatures to examine the effects of trusting and feeling trusted in family firms — that is, enterprises that are significantly influenced by members of the same family. Primary matched triadic data from chief executive officers (CEOs), family top management team (TMT) members, and non-family TMT members from 79 family firms demonstrate that trusting in, and feeling trusted by, the CEO has important benefits for performance. In addition, results indicate that family TMT members feel more trusted by the family CEO, and perceive him/her as more trustworthy, than non-family TMT members do.

This workshop will review one college’s approach to individualizing the leadership experience of undergraduate students by incorporating a “Leadership Development Plan” into all leadership classes. The workshop will review the process for instructors and students and engage participants in adapting and scaling the process for their institution.

Meeting Room 209 | Symposium | Business Leadership

Moving the Needle on Diversity & Inclusion at Work and in Our Research

Chair: Tasha Davis, Manager, Field Marketing, Marketing, T-Mobile

Commentator: Jim Ludema, Co-Founder & Director, Center for Values-Driven Leadership, Benedictine University

Visit http://tinyurl.com/y4dwm26a for Session Details.

Our workplaces are becoming increasingly diverse both domestically and globally, and yet clear strategies for creating inclusive organizations are rare. The presenters in this session, all accomplished scholar-practitioners, provide research and practiced-based solutions for strengthening inclusion in three areas: corporate leadership and culture, gender career equality, and globally inclusive research agendas.

The Antecedents, Practices, and Consequences of Inclusive Leadership in America’s Workplace

Salwa Rahim-Dillard, Sr Diversity and Inclusion, Benedictine University

Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6gj667t for Complete Description.

America is a unique tapestry of cultural backgrounds. Our workplaces are governed by laws that attempt to compensate for America’s history of systemic discrimination and injustices committed against marginalized groups. Still they have largely failed to attract, develop, and retain diverse leaders. This presentation offers solutions by examining the antecedents, practices, and consequences of inclusive leadership in America’s workplace.

Organizational Change for Achieving Gender Career Equality

Angela Karesh, Senior Manager IT - Talent & Training, Office of CIO, Exelon

Visit http://tinyurl.com/y4ksxmd2 for Complete Description.

At the FORTUNE 100 Energy Company where I work, movement towards gender career equality has been successful in one operating unit but not in others. I provide a comparative case study of the units and demonstrate the essential strategies needed to achieve gender career equality. I link the results to the literature and to opportunities for future research and practice.
Advancing Globally Inclusive Research Agendas: Framework, Strategies, and Tools

Amber A. Johnson, Chief Communications Officer, Center for Values-Driven Leadership, Benedictine University

Visit http://tinyurl.com/yynr33hf for Complete Description.

New technologies have changed the way global business works, but have scholars changed the way they research? As organizations go global, scholars must advance more globally inclusive research practices in order to adequately examine the context of all organizational stakeholders. This presentation identifies a framework for globally inclusive research, and then suggests strategies and points of opportunity for engaging further.

Meeting Room 210 | Panel Discussion | Sustainability Leadership

Sustainability Leadership: Deep Reflection on Conference Learning

Chair: Kathleen E. Allen, President, Allen and Associates
Paul Kosempel, Associate Director & Teaching Professor, Pioneer Leadership Program, University of Denver
Benjamin Redekop, Professor, Leadership and American Studies, Christopher Newport University
Rian J. Satterwhite, Director, Office of Service Learning & Leadership, University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Visit http://tinyurl.com/y57eppyl for Session Details.

Join with a few of ILA's sustainability leadership thought leaders and other colleagues in a deep reflection of the conference's many touchpoints on sustainability leadership.

Meeting Room 211 | Presentations | Leadership Education

Exploring Leadership at the Doctoral Level: Preparation, Writing Circles, and Growing Relational Leadership

Chair: Tom Sechrest, Director, Doctorate of Leadership in Higher Education Program, Master of Science in Leadership and Change Program, St. Edward's University

Visit http://tinyurl.com/yyffut3s for Session Details.

A Student-Centered Dissertation Writing Circle for a Doctor of Business Administration Program

Debby Thomas, Assistant Professor of Management, College of Business, George Fox University
Stacie Fae Chappell, Associate Dean Graduate Programs, Faculty of Management, Vancouver Island University

Visit http://tinyurl.com/yynr3kdh for Complete Description.

This presentation will discuss a methodology for a professor to chair simultaneously multiple dissertations on similar topics while providing support, motivation, and training on editing and writing for students during the dissertation writing process. The writing circle is based on a classroom as organization design (Cohen, 1976) where students take significant roles as meeting chair, scribe, and peer-editor of their circle.

Relational Leadership: Exploring the Supervisor-Doctoral Student Context in Higher Education in Canada

Maha Al Makhamreh, PhD Candidate, Faculty of Education, Queen's University
Benjamin Kutsyuruba, Associate Professor, Faculty of Education, Queen's University

Visit http://tinyurl.com/yxnkdhoo for Complete Description.

The supervisor's leadership style contributes to the doctoral student's wellbeing and performance. Relational leadership is a potential style that helps students thrive, rather than just survive. Our preliminary findings suggested that relational leadership is a spectrum, spanning relational, present, positive leaders and non-relational, absentee, negative or toxic leaders. Relational supervisors are student-centered, and they exhibit selfless behaviors.

Statistics, Measurement, and Methodology Preparation in Doctoral Leadership Programs

Ben Brachle, Assistant Professor of Industrial Distribution, Industrial Technology, University of Nebraska - Kearney
L.J. McElravy, Associate Professor; Agricultural Leadership, Education and Communication; University of Nebraska-Lincoln
Gina S. Matkin, Associate Professor; Agricultural Leadership, Education and Communication; University of Nebraska-Lincoln (Co-Author)
Lindsay Hastings, Clifton Professor in Mentoring Research & Director; Nebraska Human Resources Institute; Agricultural Leadership, Education, and Communication; University of Nebraska-Lincoln (Co-Author)

With the rapid growth of leadership research and the increasing complexity of research methods, preparing doctoral students to do research in leadership studies is becoming more challenging. This paper outlines an exploratory research study and presents results of what is currently being done by university doctoral leadership programs to prepare students to do research in the complex area of leadership.
Creating Scholar-Leaders: A Case for Experiential-Learning at the PhD Level
Karen A. Ford, Director & Professor, School of Strategic Leadership Studies, James Madison University
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y5jgme2y for Complete Description.
This work explores the use of experiential learning in a leadership studies PhD program focusing on a required externship. The students, professionals, and instructor participated in a hybrid form of community-based participatory research. Results will be presented from both a student and organization perspective with implications for pedagogy, leadership development, and agency-university partnerships. Implications for future research will be highlighted.

Meeting Room 212 | Panel Discussion | Leadership Development
I Did NOT See That Coming: Using Constructive Disorientation for Deep Learning and Change
Chair: Lize A.E. Booyse, Professor of Leadership and Organizational Behavior, Graduate School of Leadership and Change, Antioch University
Martha F. Miser, Founder & President, Aduro Consulting, LLC
Jon Wergin, Professor, Leadership and Change, Antioch University
Tayo Glenn Switzer, Leadership 6
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y6bwsyjo for Session Details.
Panelists will explore constructive disorientation as an approach to leading aimed at enabling others to alter outmoded versions of reality in order to respond to the complex challenges of our contemporary times. Four ways of fostering such generative disruption will be offered for attendees to engage with interactively: disorienting dilemmas, aesthetic engagement, mindfulness, and embodied practice.

Meeting Room 213 | Panel Discussion | Leadership: Courage Required
International Leadership Association Program Guidelines and Standards Task Force
Chair & Panelist: Gama Perruci, Dean, McDonough Leadership Center, Marietta College
Sadhana W. Hall, Deputy Director, The Nelson A. Rockefeller Center, Dartmouth College
Visit http://tinyurl.com/yxkpdp33 for Session Details.
The world has a pressing need for leadership. We see and experience the need daily in our places of work, our communities, and throughout the world. We have also seen a growing number of education and business organizations responding to this urgent need by developing leadership programs for students and employees. The ILA is committed to advancing leadership knowledge and practices. It is also committed to delivering trusted resources that are rigorous and relevant — including the development of guidelines and standards for leadership programs. Therefore, the ILA has commissioned a task force to develop rigorous and relevant program guidelines and standards for formal leadership programs; and to create a process for assessment and evaluation of established leadership programs based on the agreed upon guidelines and standards. The formal leadership programs included in this task force work are for academic undergraduate and graduate curricular programs and organizational leadership development programs in the for-profit and nonprofit sectors. This panel is designed to introduce the task force work to the ILA members and solicit feedback from conference participants.

Meeting Room 215 | Panel Discussion | Women & Leadership
Women Entrepreneurs: Courageous Pathways, Entrepreneurial Identities, and Positive Change
Chair: Dorothy E. Agger-Gupta, Professor, School of Leadership Studies, Fielding Graduate University
Carrie L. Spell-Hansson, Executive Director - Owner, The Folke Institute, LLC
Michele Foster, EVP Organizational Transformation and Change, Human Values Center
Patricia D. Sobczak, Collections Librarian & Assistant Professor
Valerie J. Davis, Leadership Consultant & Researcher, Lysistrata Incorporated
Zarat Boyd, President, MaxLife, Inc.
Visit http://tinyurl.com/y3jqkzbo for Session Details.
Women entrepreneurs matter. They promote positive change and wellbeing in organizations and communities, overcome gender-related obstacles, yet are overlooked in dominant entrepreneurial literature. The women in this panel had the courage to create unique pathways and develop entrepreneurial identities. Panelists and audience members will share and learn from their inspiring stories and unique pathways to become entrepreneurial leaders.

Gonzaga.edu/Leadership
We invite you to join us in San Francisco, on the edge, as we explore leadership, the ways that we lead, and what we expect from leaders in 2020.

Human beings have created so much that is wondrous, powerful, and beautiful. Over the centuries we have learned to fly, communicate instantly across huge distances, heal diseases, and see across the universe. Yet vestiges and legacies of tribalism, fear, and hostility remain and repeatedly flare, threatening to engulf us. We exist on the edge of innovation and destruction, the edge of what we dread versus what we dream.

Edges of natural systems and societies naturally stimulate growth and inventiveness as their inhabitants navigate their way through the borderlands. It is fitting that Leading at the Edge, ILA’s 2020 annual global conference, will take place in San Francisco, a city of possibility where a continent meets an ocean. San Francisco is known for attracting people engaged in exploring the edges in the arts, sciences, and business, as well as in themselves. Here, local groups are experimenting with different pathways to racial and socio-economic healing and new directions in neuroscience, biomedicine, AI, and telehealth — just to name a few.

Come share your forward-thinking, innovative research and projects! We invite you to bring your experience and knowledge as we ask:

- How can we support leadership for the greater good in business, government, NGOs, and education throughout the globe?
- How can we change the conversation on tough issues like climate change and peace?
- How can we shift public discourse towards listening and respect for each other and all living beings on our planet — upholding the human rights of all people?
- How can we contribute to the creation and success of regenerative businesses and cultures where we support life, commerce, community, and growth for the next seven generations?
- In what ways can our collaboration in the trusted space of the ILA generate actions, research, and teaching that encourage leaders to create dynamic civil societies and communities with heart and consciousness?
- How can we, in our professional and personal lives, create healthy environments that give people confidence and the will to contribute?

ILA 2020 will nourish those who lead, consult, teach, study, and conduct research with exciting ideas, innovative projects, and good friends — both old and new. Submit your research, workshops, ideas, reflections, and panels, whether on the theme of Leading at the Edge or on your own view of what is important — and join us in the city on the edge!
